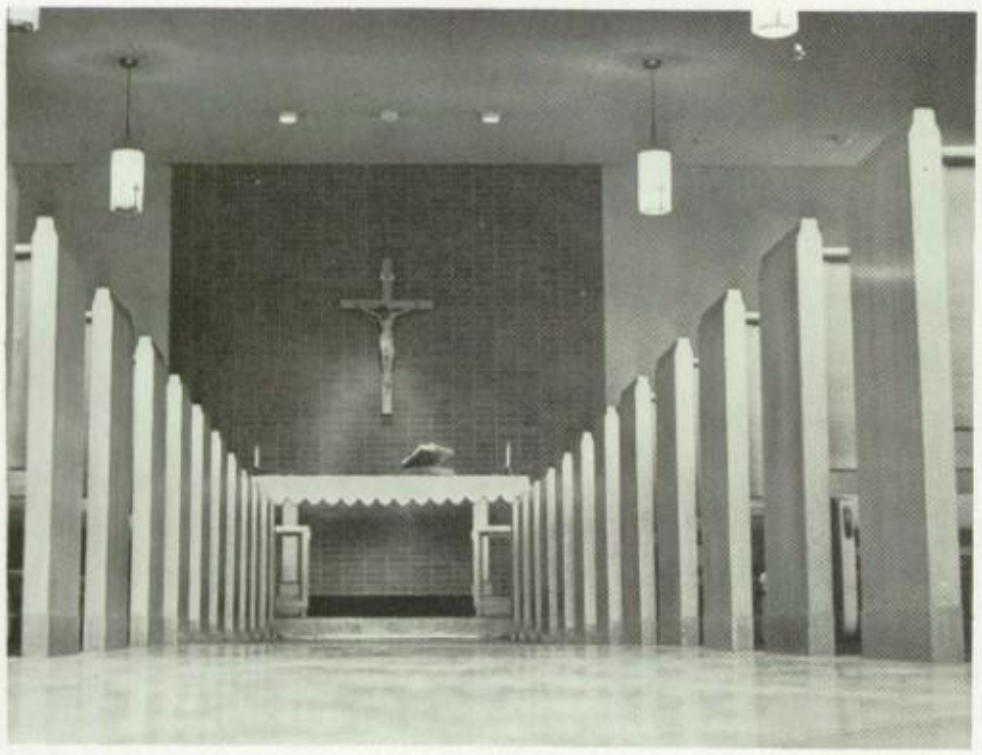
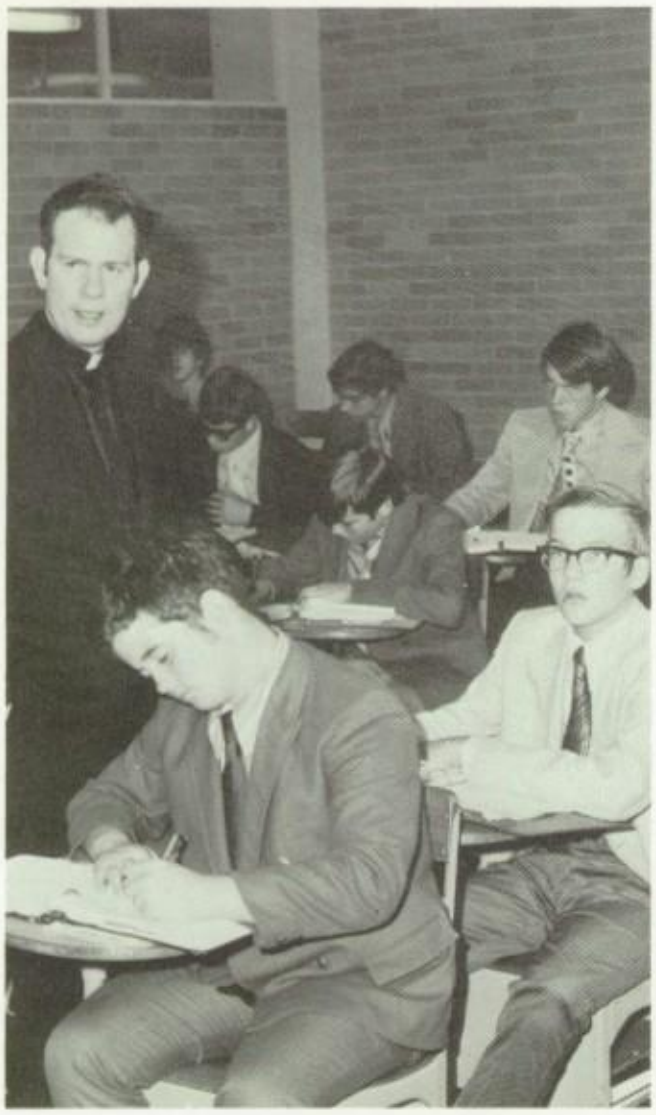
FOREWORD

A young man's evolution to maturity is one of the most dramatic experiences which life, in all its infinite dimensions, has to offer. This road of life is a narrow, difficult one containing many obstacles to be confronted and overcome. To aid him in his journey, the youth needs a guiding hand; he needs knowledge and the chance to discover that unique individual abiding within himself. These are not abstract concepts but an inexplicable reality.



Our Bishop Eustace years have had a most critical effect upon our metamorphosis into manhood. During this time, attempts have been made to give us the guidance, the knowledge and the opportunity to create, which is so desperately needed to grow and bridge the gap between darkness and light, ignorance and wisdom, juvenile brashness and mature judgement. We worked together; we struggled together; we learned together in both happiness and frustration. Now, we invite you to view some glimpses of young men changing, growing, and struggling to express themselves in the 1972 Crusader.

Reverend Louis Micca, S.A.C., MA



IN AESTIMATIONE

Piety, self-sacrifice and scholarship are words which cannot be omitted in any description of Father Louis Micca. In his years at Bishop Eustace, Fr. Louis has labored diligently to instill in his students a thorough knowledge of English, Religion and Latin while setting an admirable example of the Christian life.

Father is a man deeply concerned with Bishop Eustace and the welfare of its students. His past service as Spiritual Director, forensics coach and moderator of the band emphatically illustrate this interest. Though we are aware that any form of thanks could never be enough to fully demonstrate our gratitude for all the time and concern he has given to us, we would like to dedicate the 1972 Crusader Yearbook, in aestimatione, in appreciation, to Father Louis Micca.

THE BACKBONE OF THE PREP

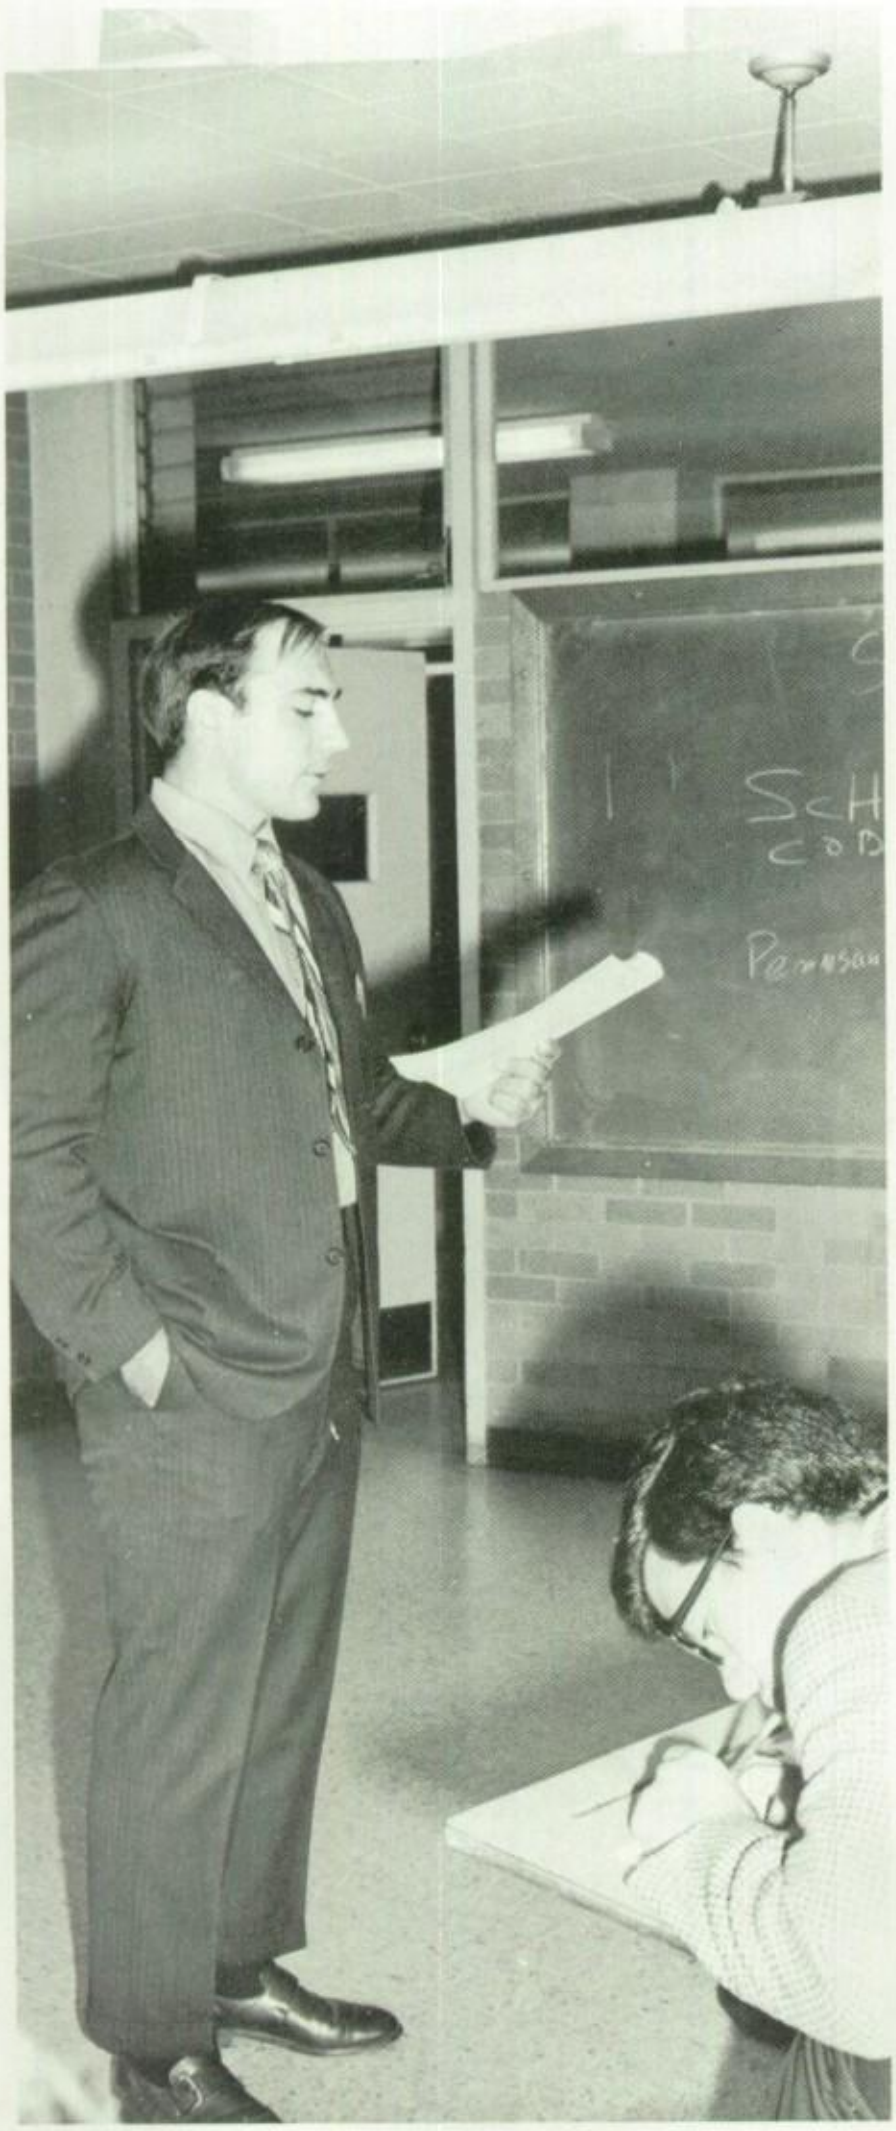
The administrative team at Eustace continued to work wonders this year. Fr. Luciani's fine business mind and smiling face made him a familiar personage to students around the campus. Rev. Angelo Palermo, Principal, is noted for his keen interest in the student's welfare. Together with Mr. John McHale, VP of Academic Affairs, this backbone of the Prep is filled out by the faculty.

Father Angelo "checks in."

Mrs. Ernest receives an assignment.

Father Luciani examines financial reports.

Teachers attend a typical faculty meeting.



Mr. Capozzi lectures in American History.

Actually, the sun did it!

Discussion characterizes Political Science class.

HISTORIES MAKE MEN WISE . . .

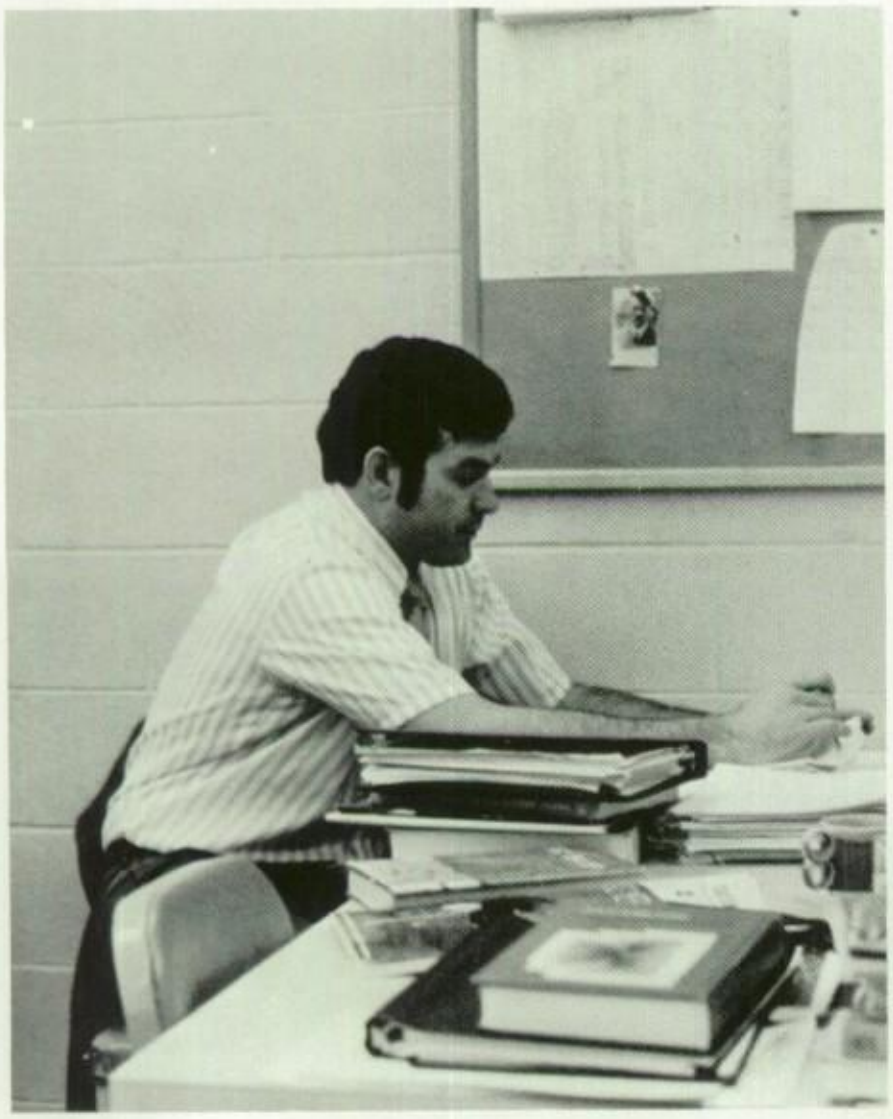
Leo, was that you who snuffed Guellich?

The cyclic theory of history tells us that our study of the past enables us to be forearmed for the future. This concept is borne out at Eustace through the interpretation and mental stimulation offered by Mr. Kopesky's classes in Political Science and Economics. Our cultural heritage as Americans is examined under the joint guidance of Mr. Capozzi and Mrs. Hulet. Present problems and situations are considered by Mr. Fisher in Sociology.

Look, Mark, I had my hand up first.

"Do you have a monkey for your act?"

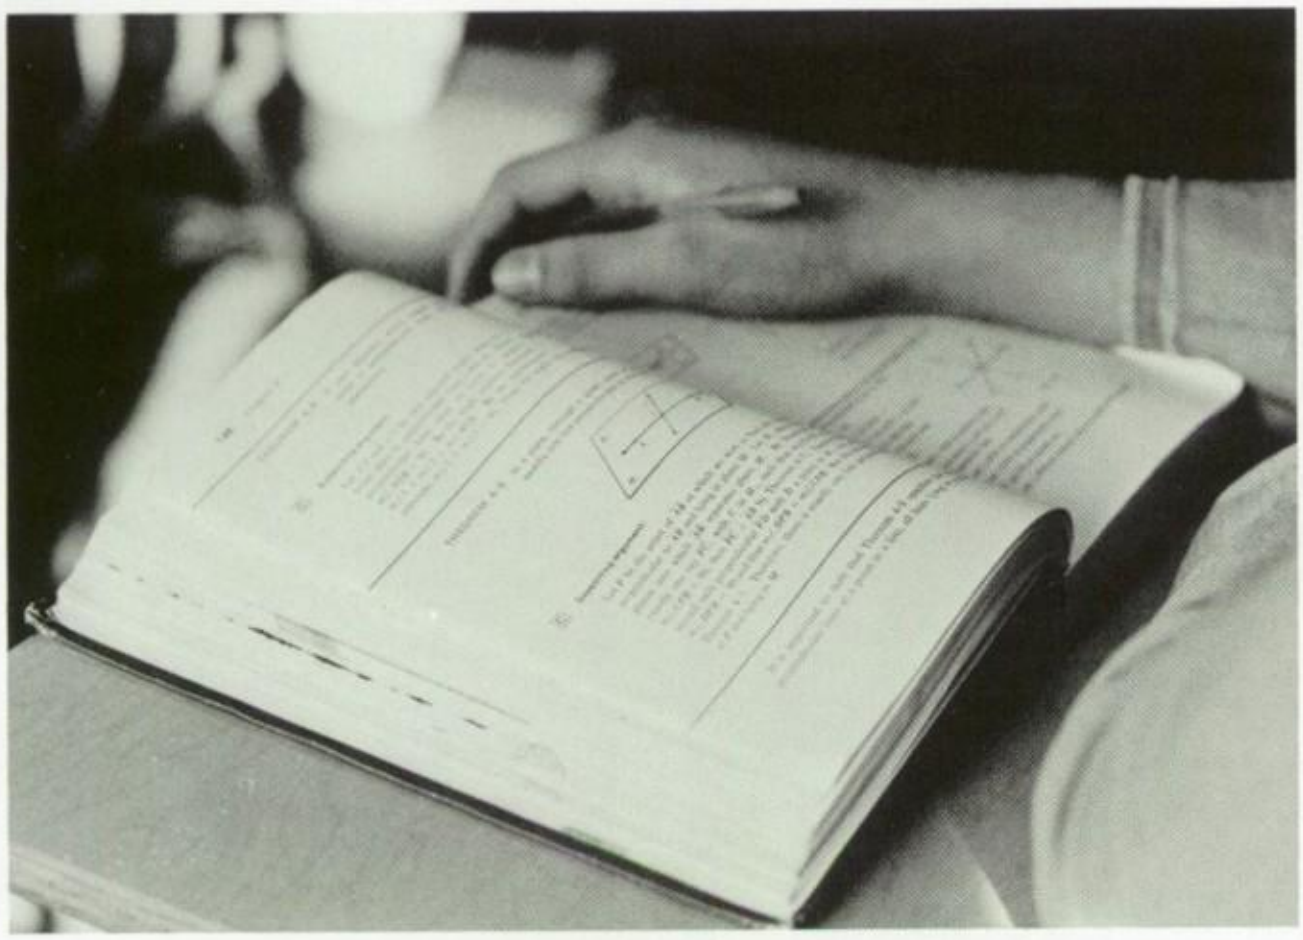
So what if you all failed?



Mr. Arizzi calculates batting averages.

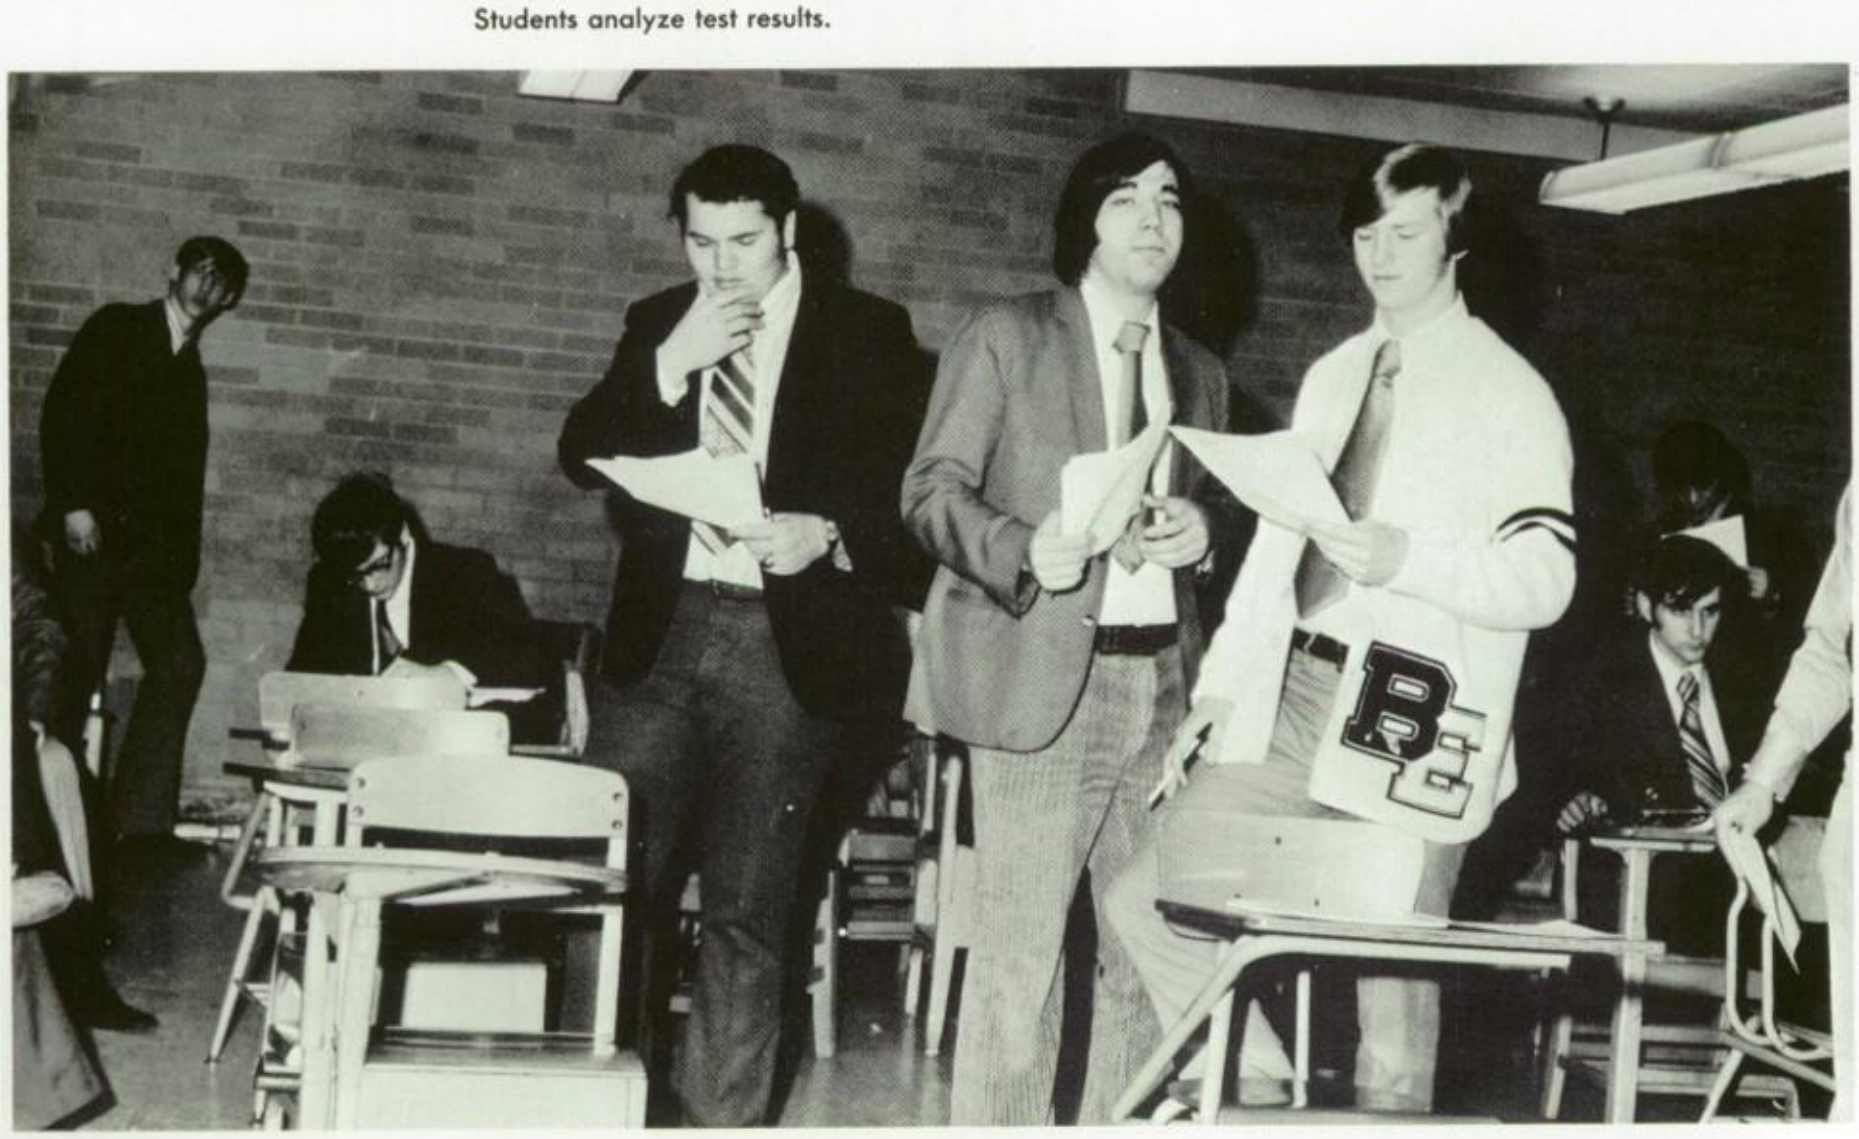
. . . THE MATHEMATICS, SUBTILE.

FRANCIS BACON



Students analyze test results.

"To teach math as a practical, intriguing science" might well have been Mr. Cianfrani's motto as math department head. For not only do Mr. Arizzi and Father John introduce students to mathematical ideas in Algebra, but Mr. Cook trains the analytical mind in Geometry, and Mr. Jose gives a basis for the physical sciences in Trigonometry. Further study was also offered by Mr. Cianfranti's Calculus class.



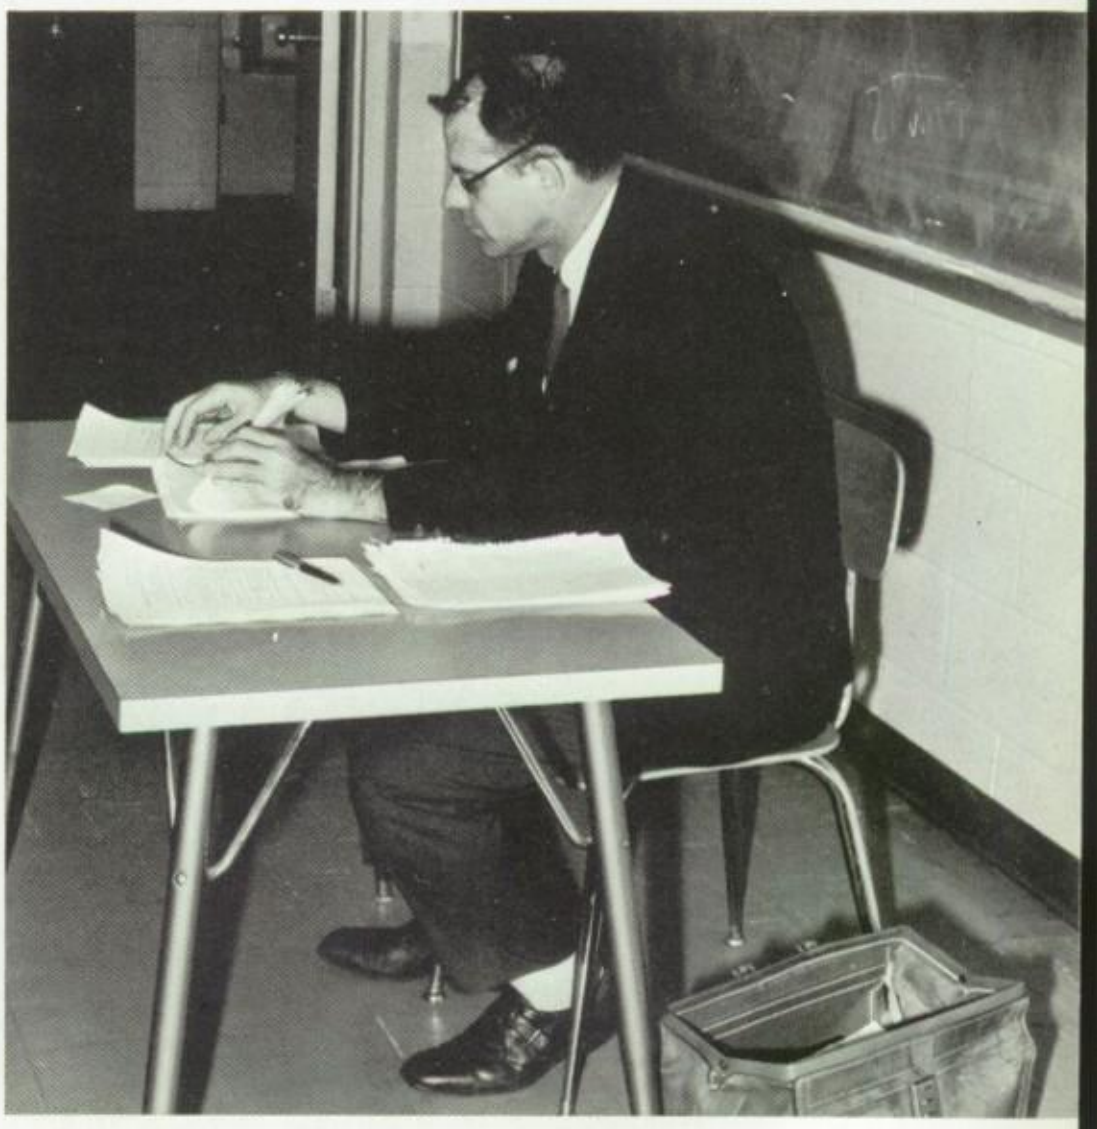
ENGLISH: THE COUNTERPOINT OF TRADITION AND PROGRESS

Although English is our native language, we are often ignorant of many of its communicative forms. With this in mind, Department Chairman, Mr. Robert Rocca, attempted to open new avenues of knowledge to Eustace students. Among the many offerings of the English department, most notable were Father Louis' Philosophy of Literature, and Mr. Marquart's Creative Writing. Other intricacies and tradition of British literature were covered by Mr. John Cronin.

". . . and if you think the last test was bad . . . "

Students show mixed emotions to presentation.

"Boy, did I zap them."

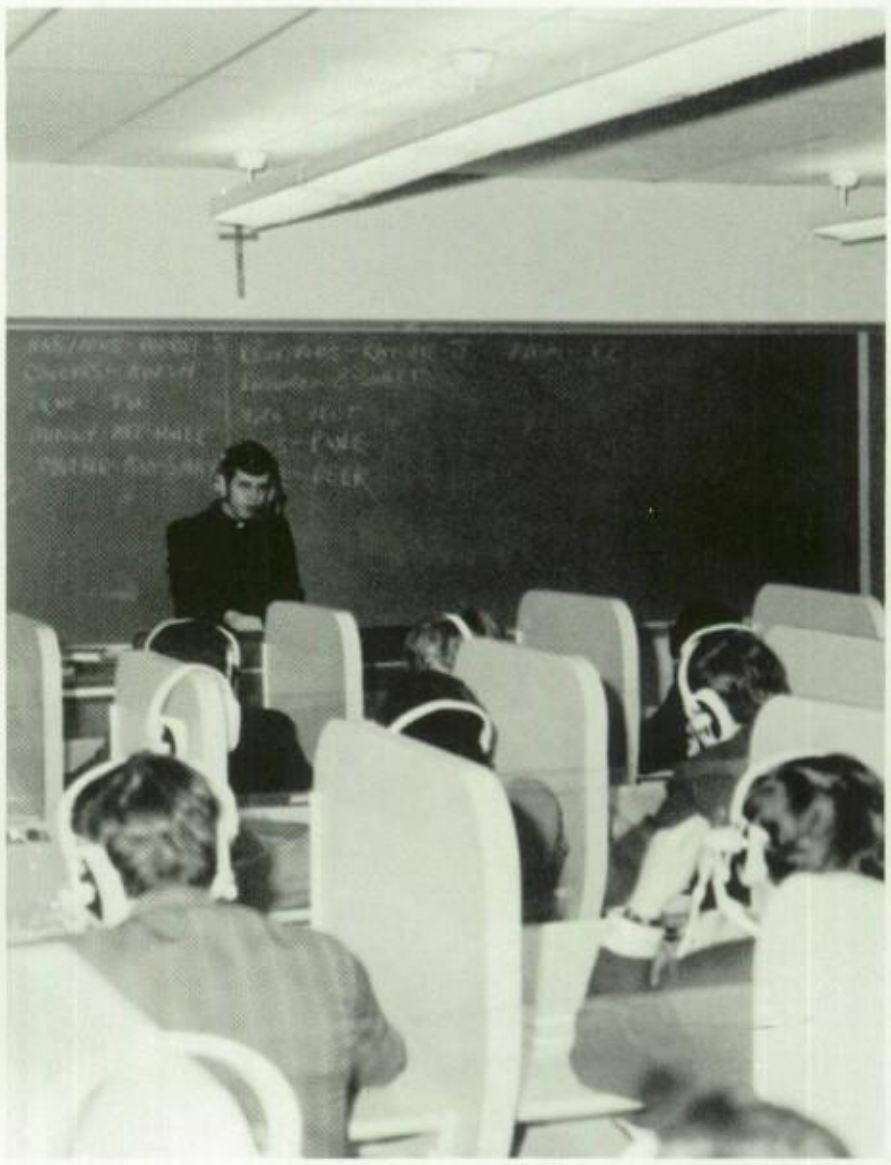


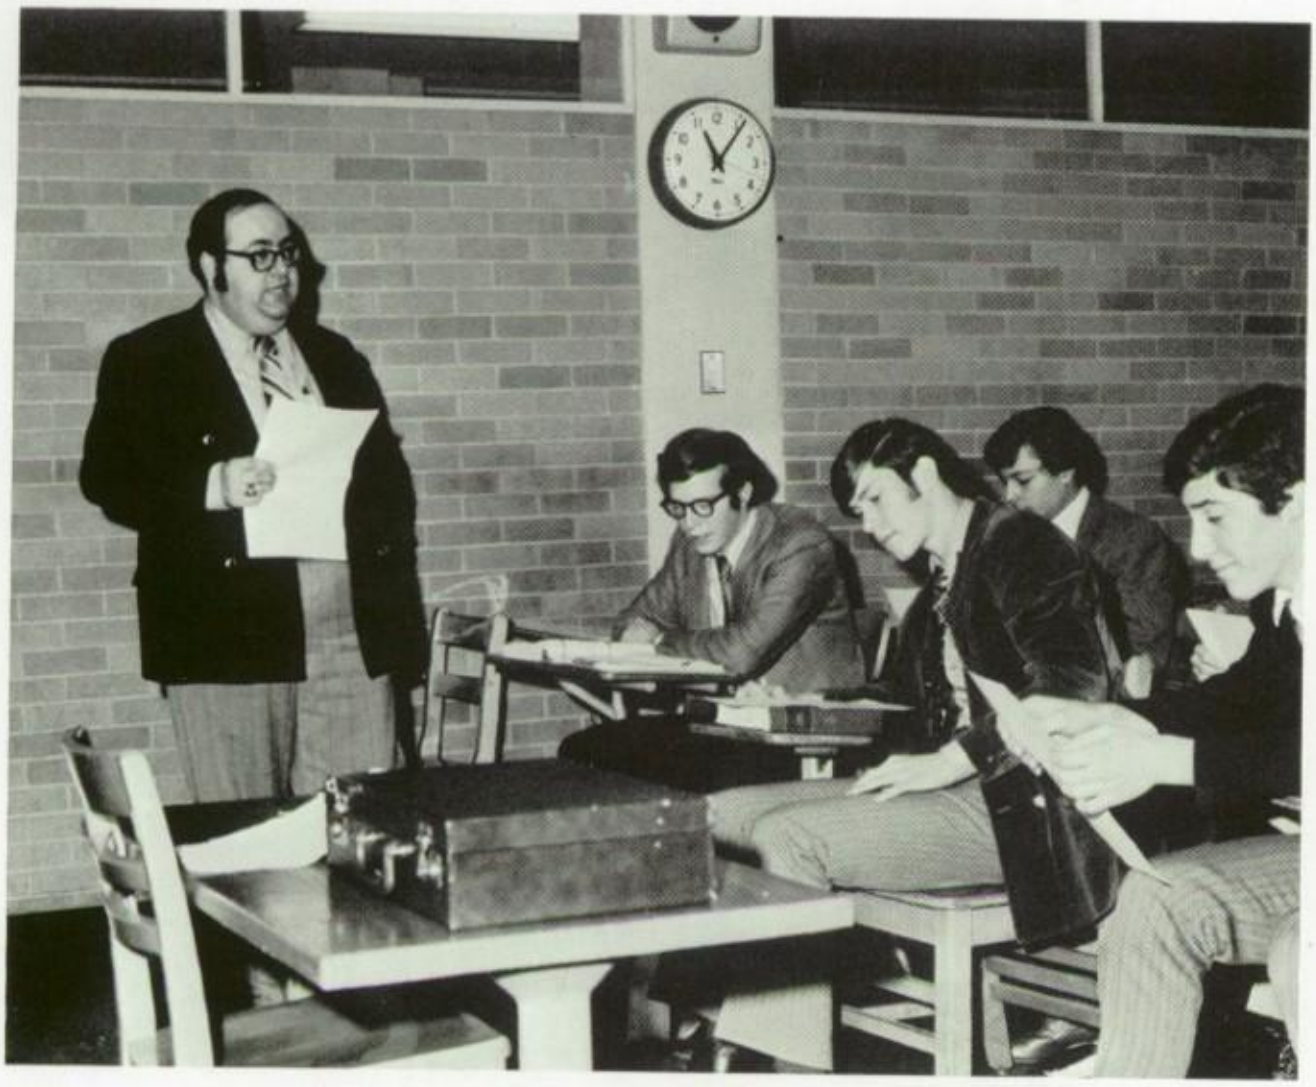
. . . ZZZZZZZZZ . . .

TO LEARN A LANGUAGE — IS TO LIVE ANEW

"I don't care if you all fail."

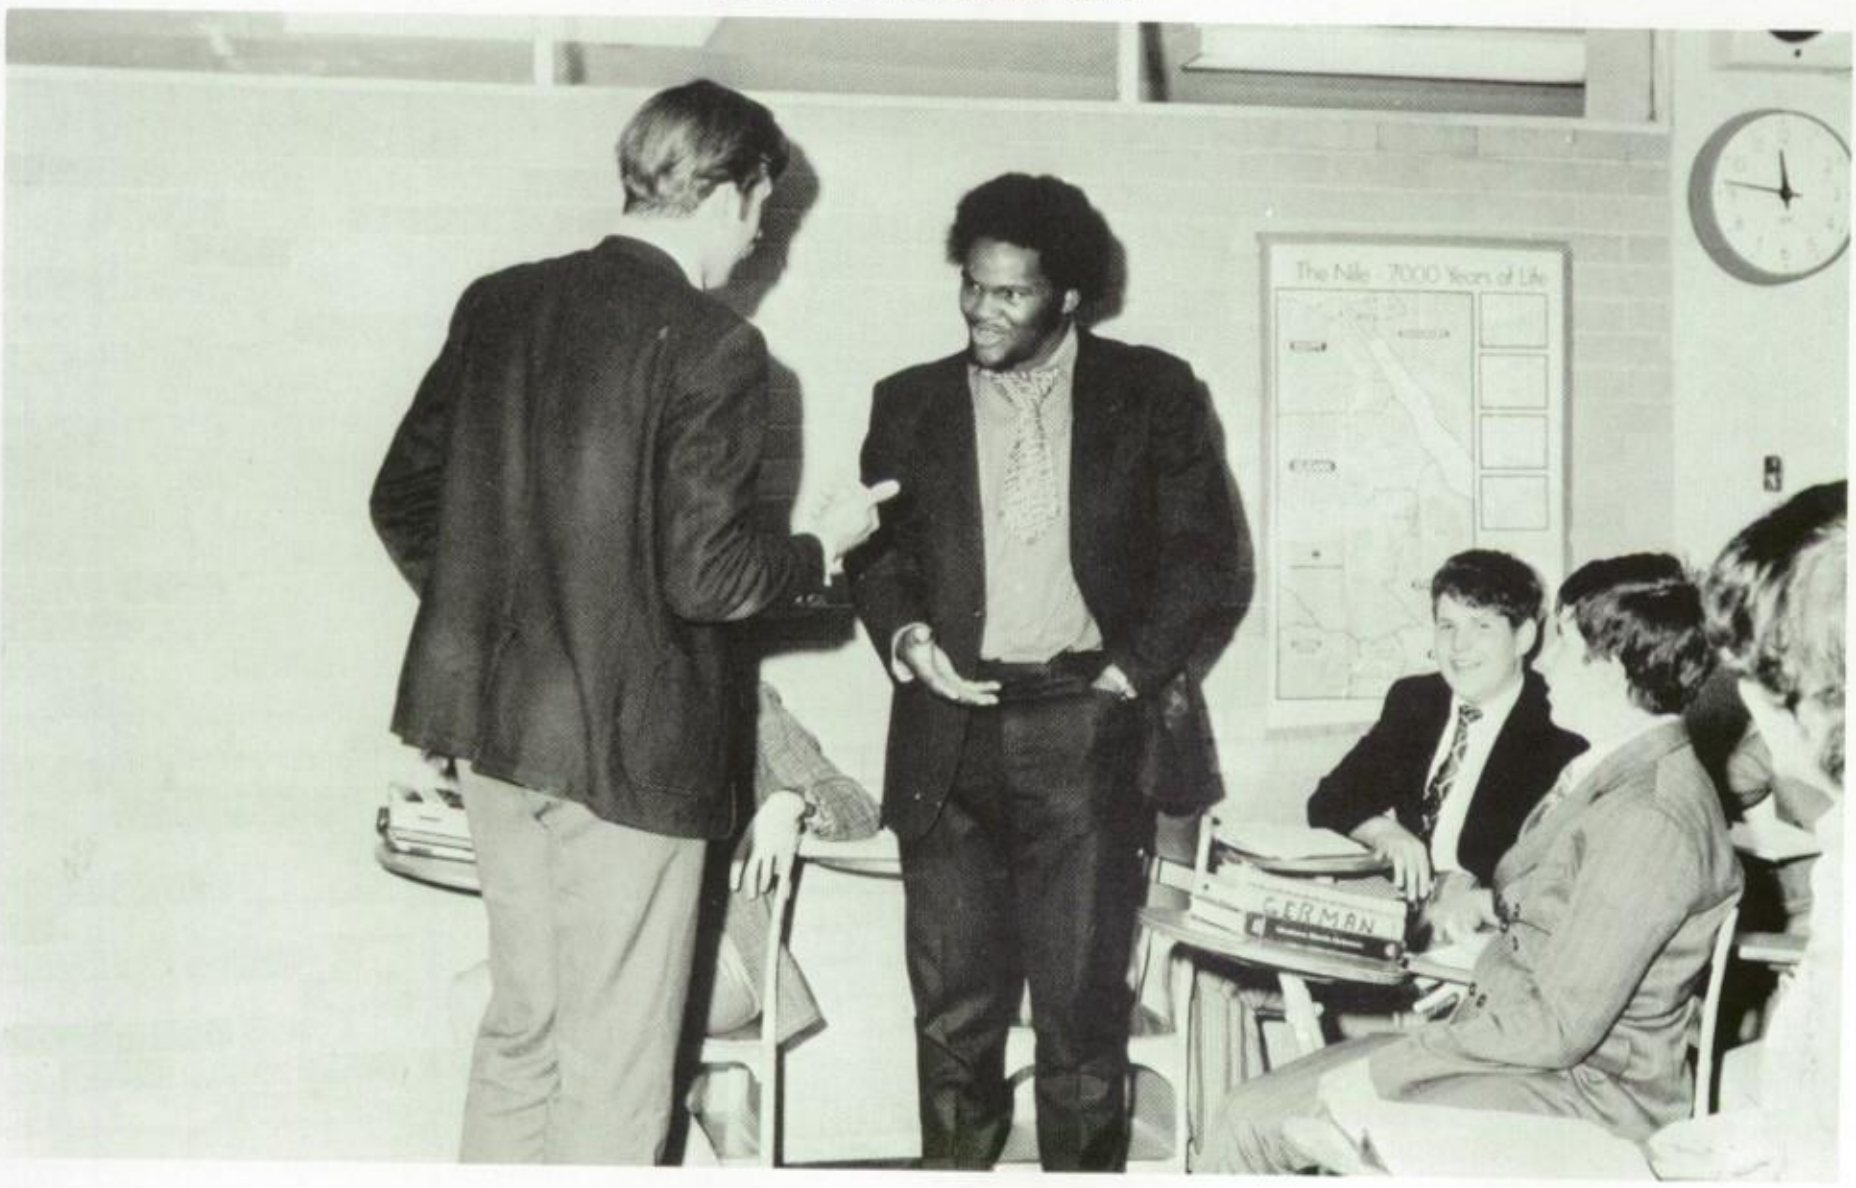
Fr. John censors lab comments.





What's the German word for Green?

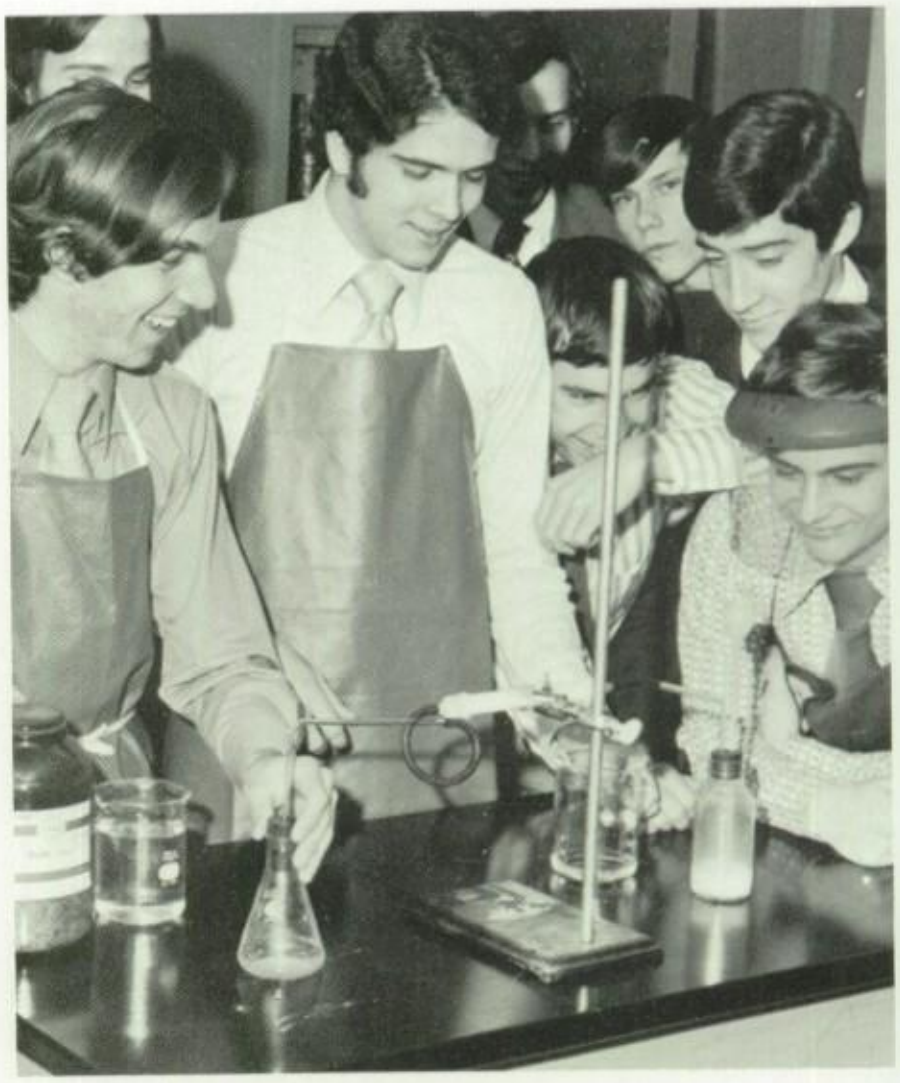
Although its two offerings of French and German hardly qualifies the language department as a miniature United Nations, the language program at Eustace continued to be very informative and enlightening. Rev. John Biermann aided Mr. Jean LeTrionnaire in the mastering of French verbs and culture. The German contingent was headed by Mr. DiGilio with Mr. Lipinsky and Rev. Mr. McNally.



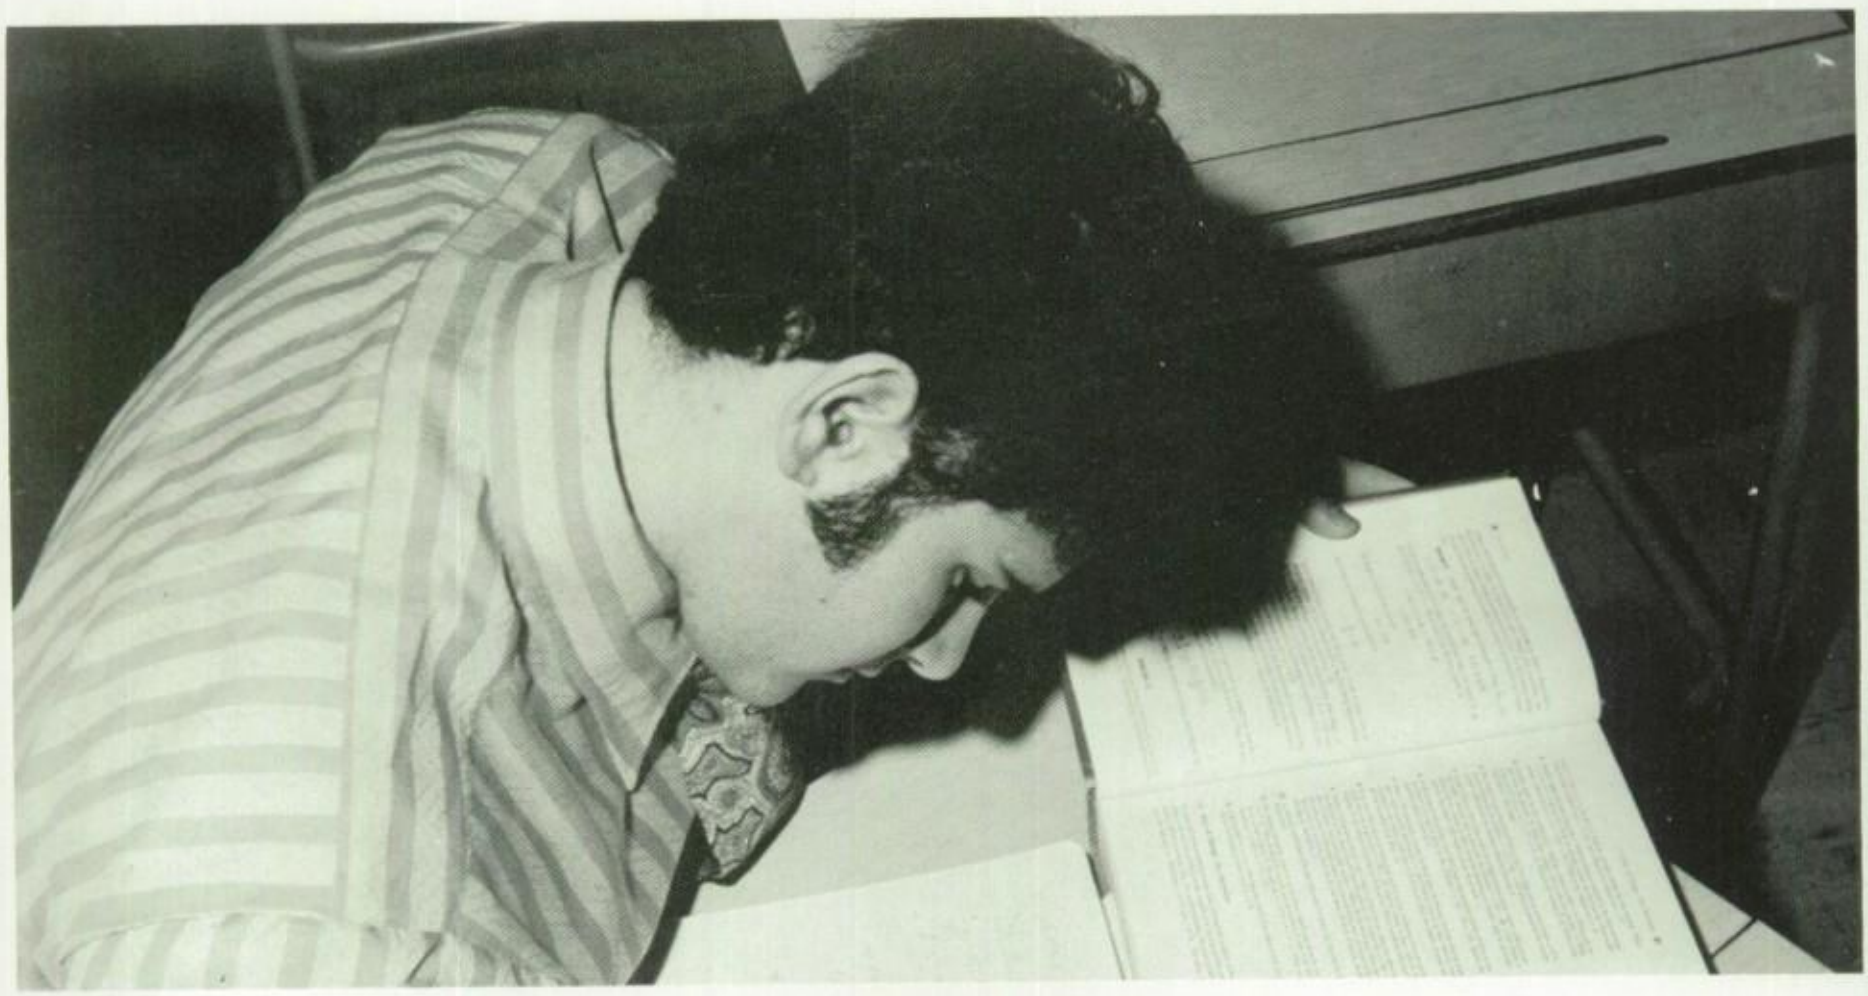
CHANCE FAVORS THE PREPARED MIND

LOUIS PASTEUR

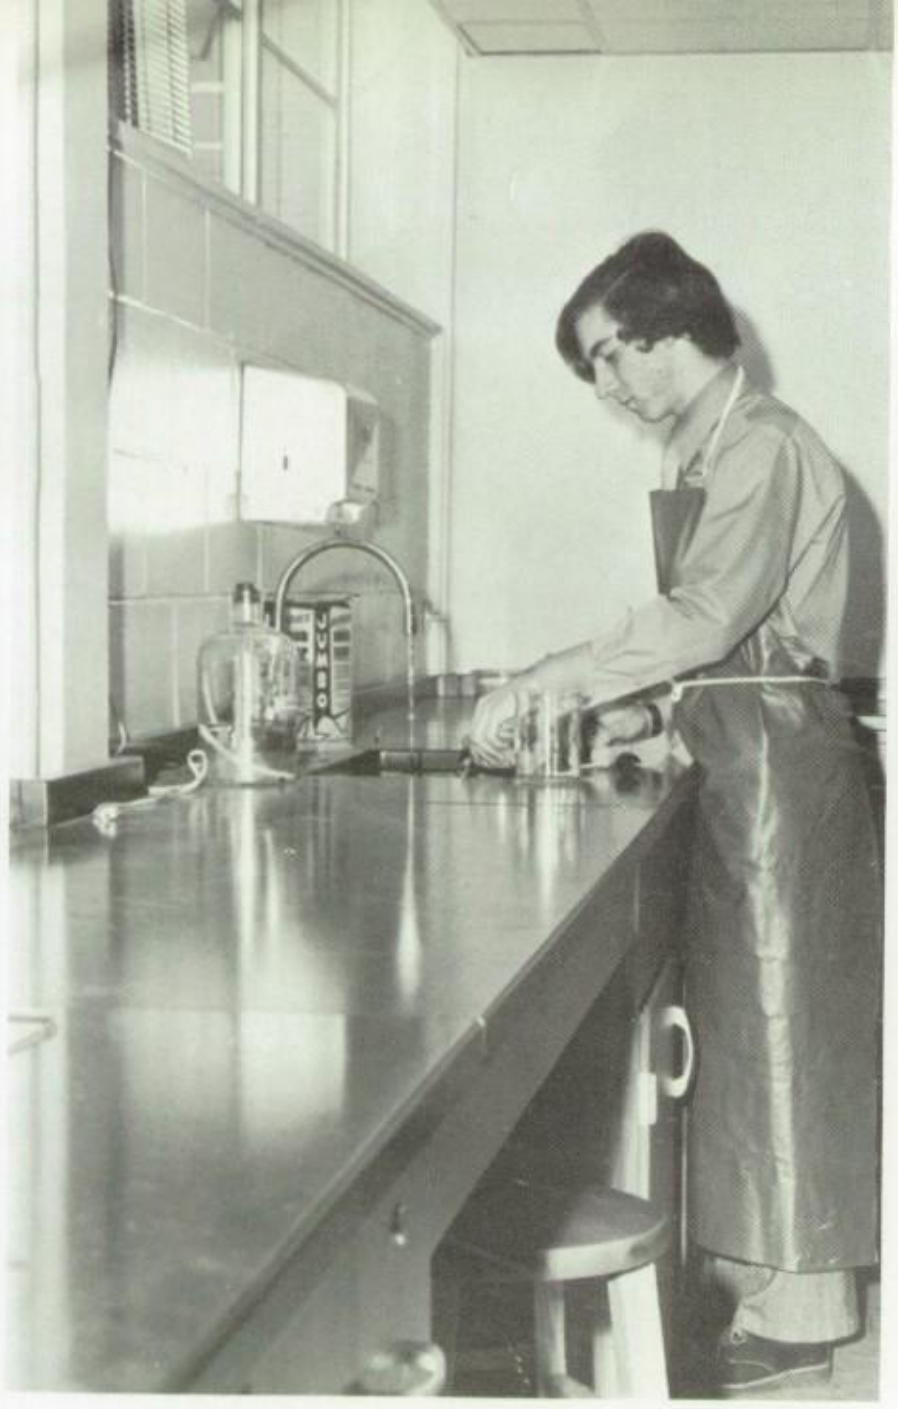
Under the guidance of Department chairman, Mr. James Bell, BE students prepared themselves for the demands required of standard college science courses. From Earth Science to Physics, students were shown the mystique of the scientific world. Mr. William Petroski and Mr. Terry Regan gave the freshmen their first taste of science at the Prep. Sophomores explored Biology with Mr. Ron Rajki and Mr. Bell. Juniors became familiar with the Periodic Chart in Fundamental Chemistry with Mr. Bell and Mr. Regan. BE's science program closed for the seniors with Project Physics guided by Mr. Rajki and Mr. Cianfrani.



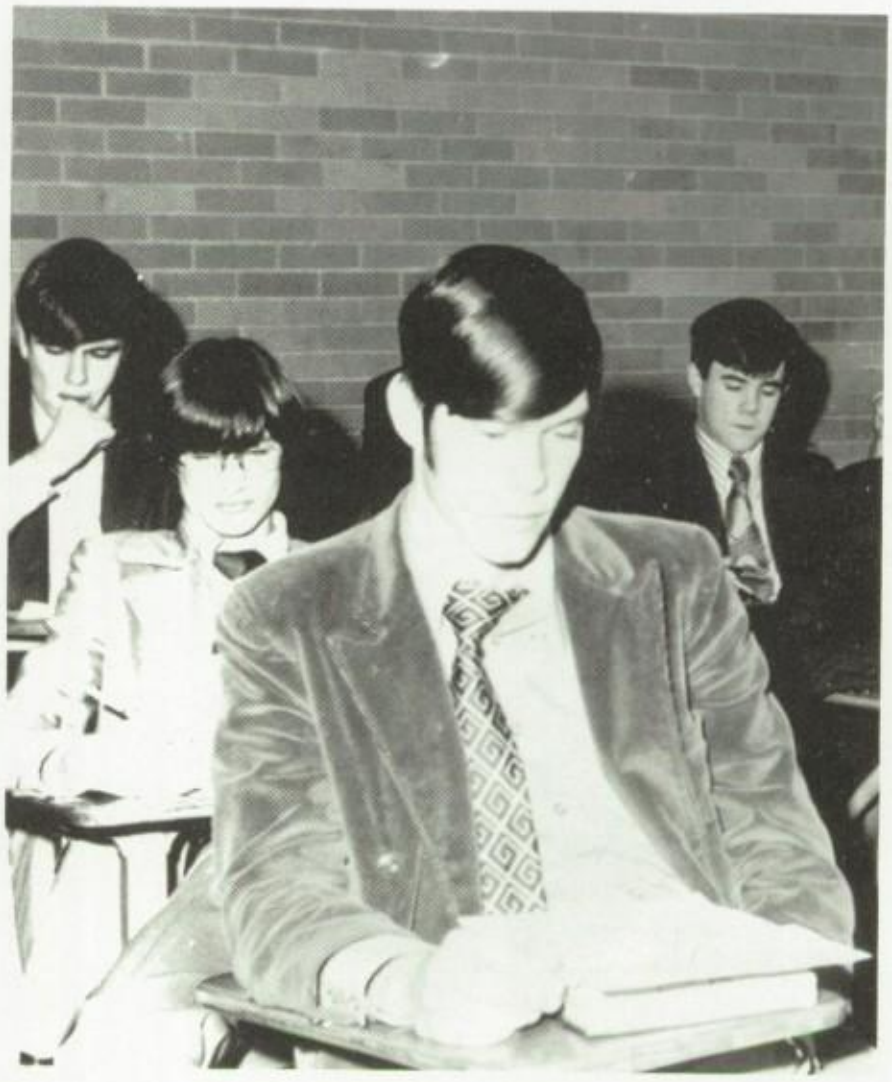
What do you know? It works!



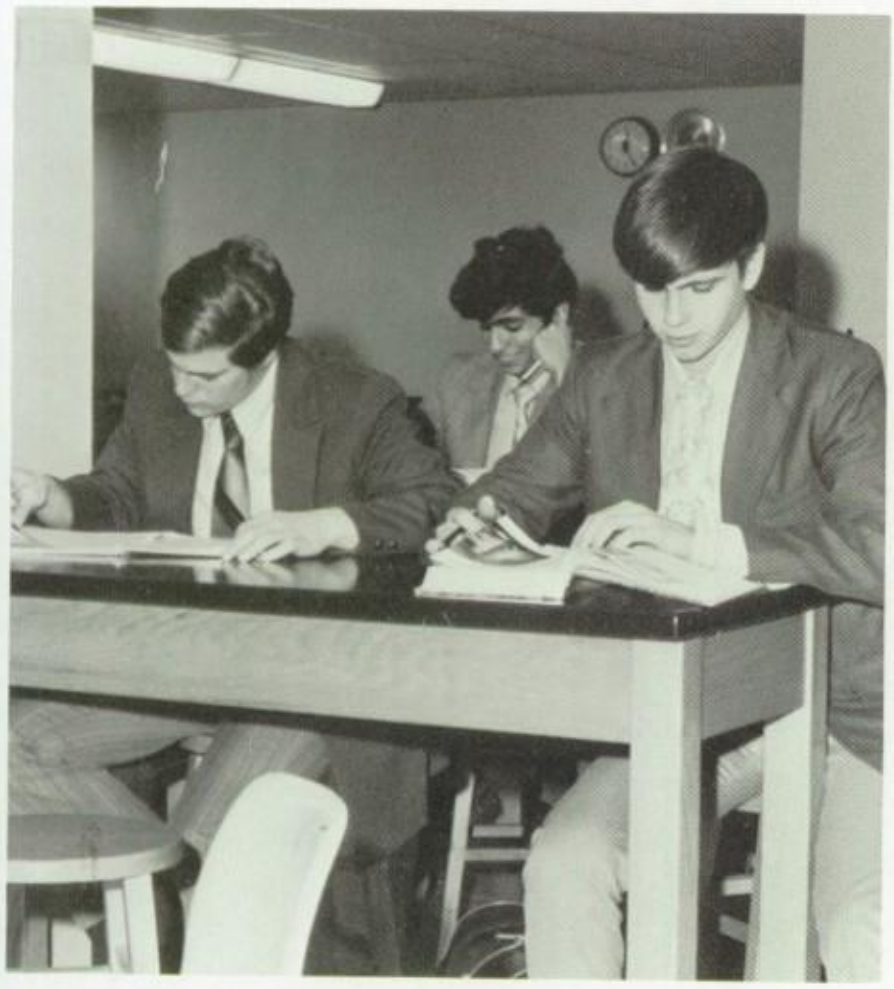
If $E = mc^2$ and $V = D/T$, then $KE = \frac{1}{2}mv^2$



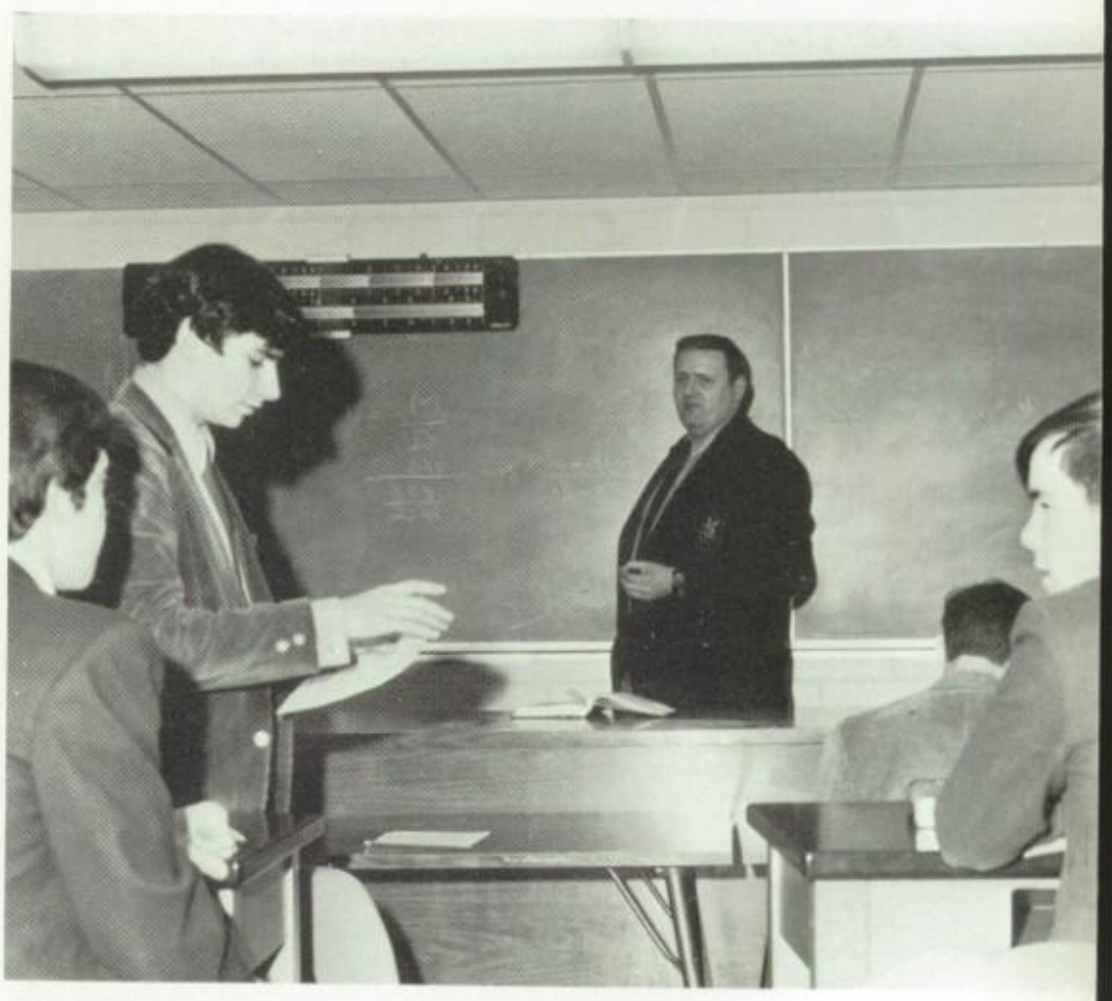
I always get the dirty jobs.



The text ain't much, but the pictures are great.



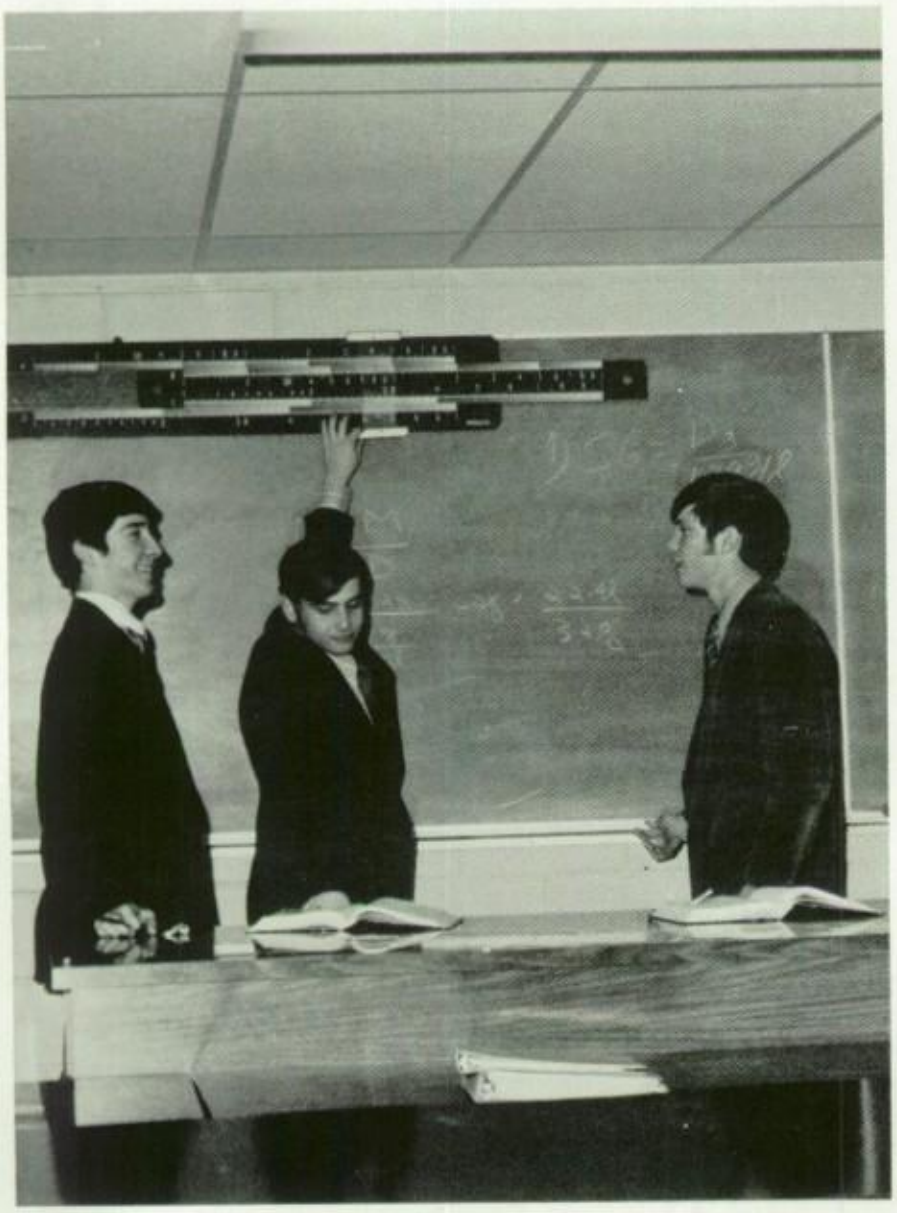
If we get anymore notes, I'm leaving.



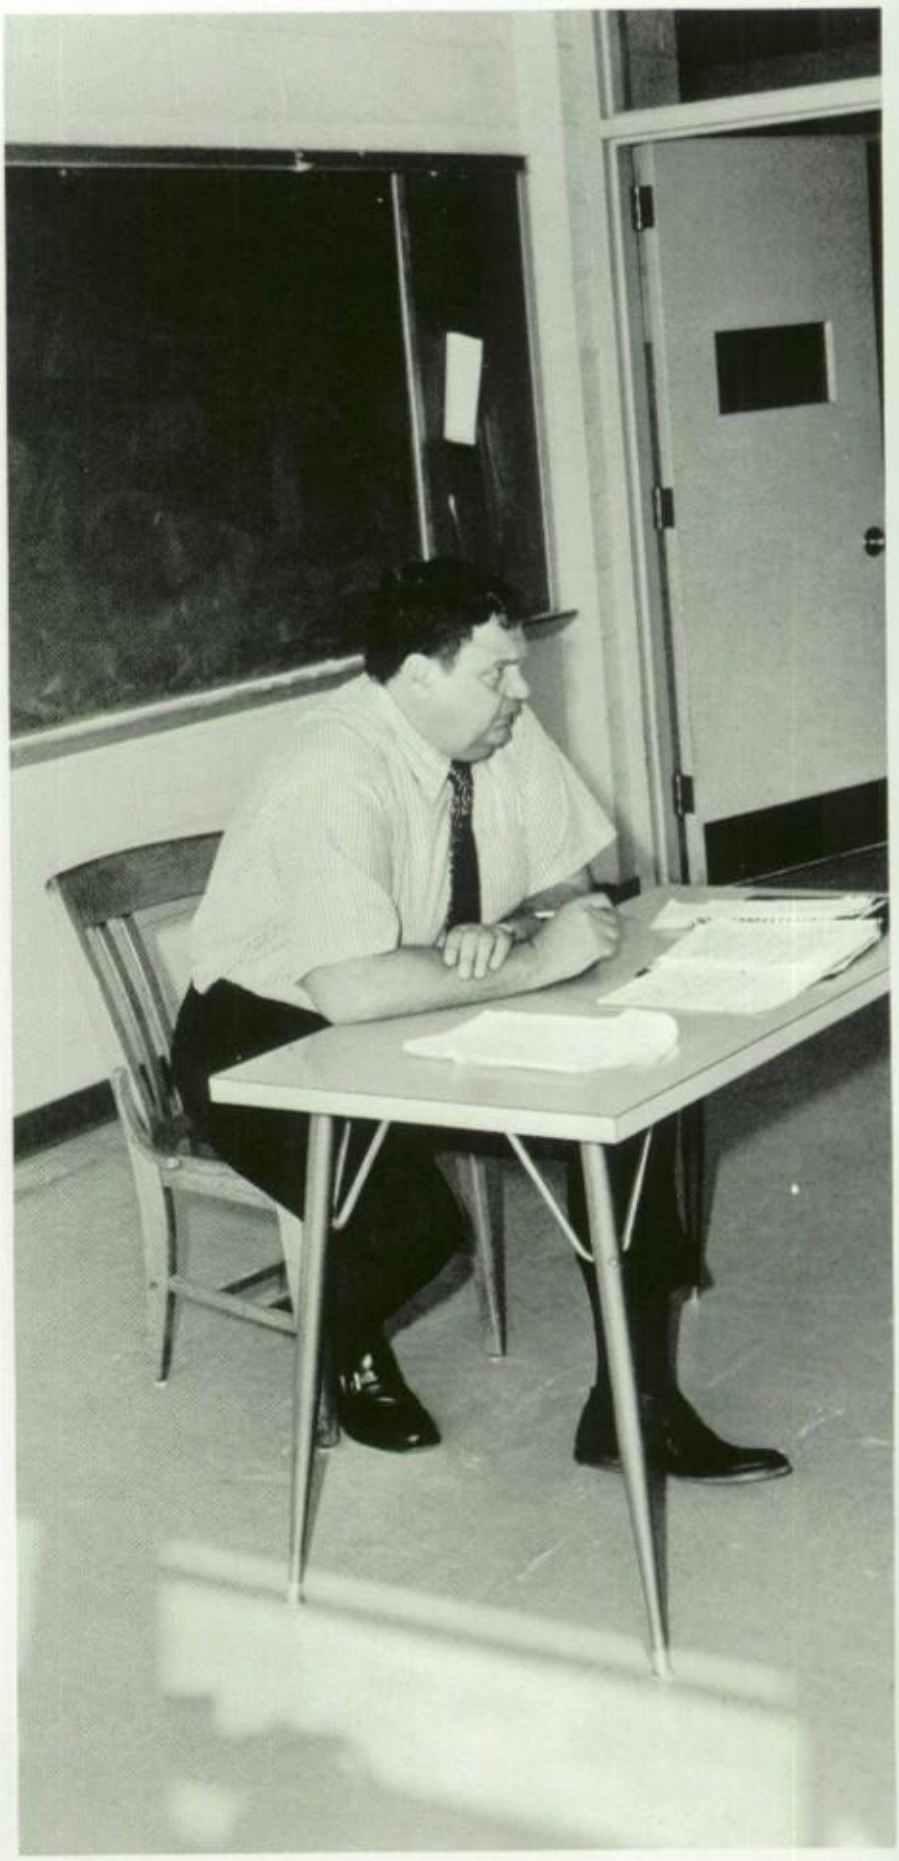
"Clayton, I'll get you yet."

THE WHOLE OF SCIENCE IS NOTHING MORE THAN A REFINEMENT OF OUR EVERYDAY THINKING

ALBERT EINSTEIN



I didn't make a mistake, the book's wrong.

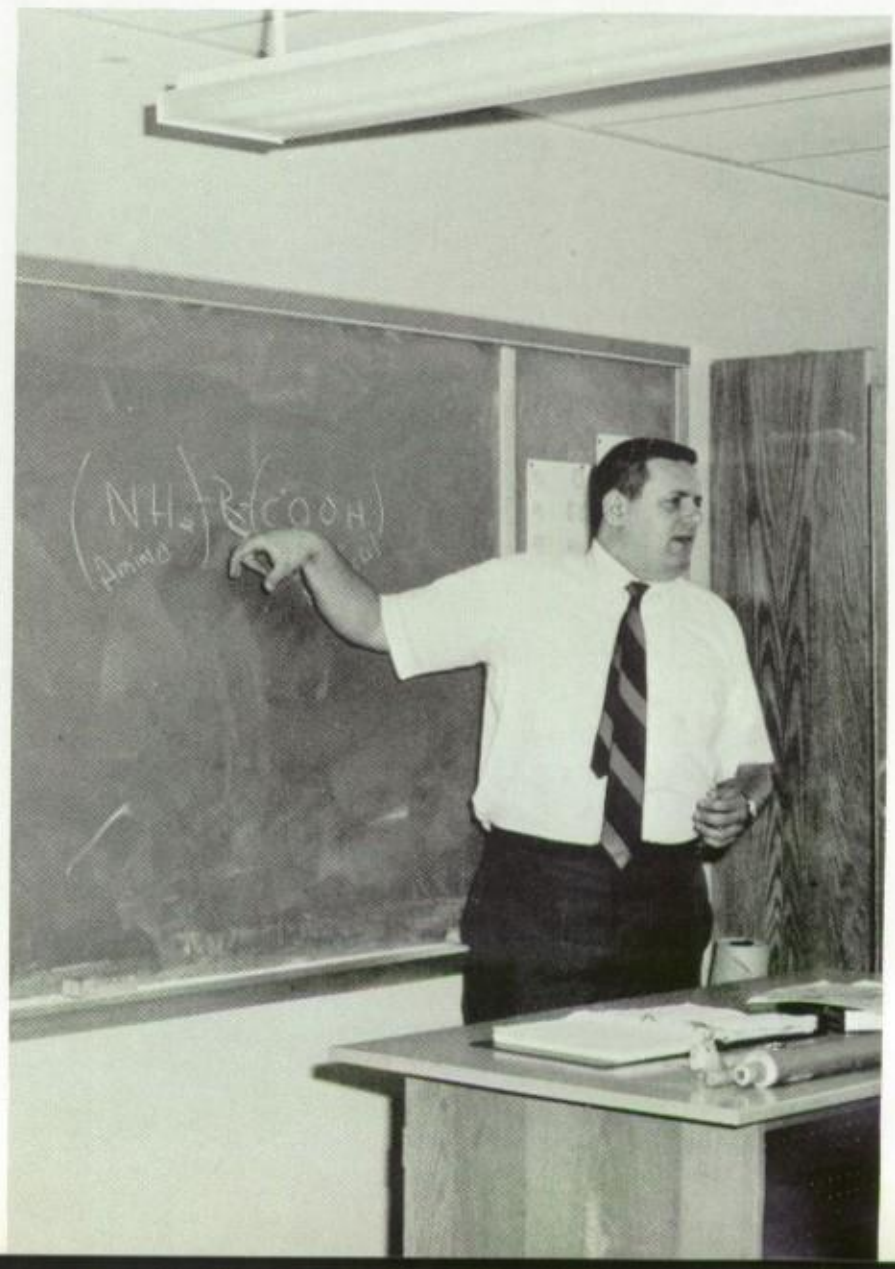


Vitale, I've seen better heads on a can of beer.

Mr. Regan examines slides.

When do we get to use this toy?

Mr. Bell explains "R" group.



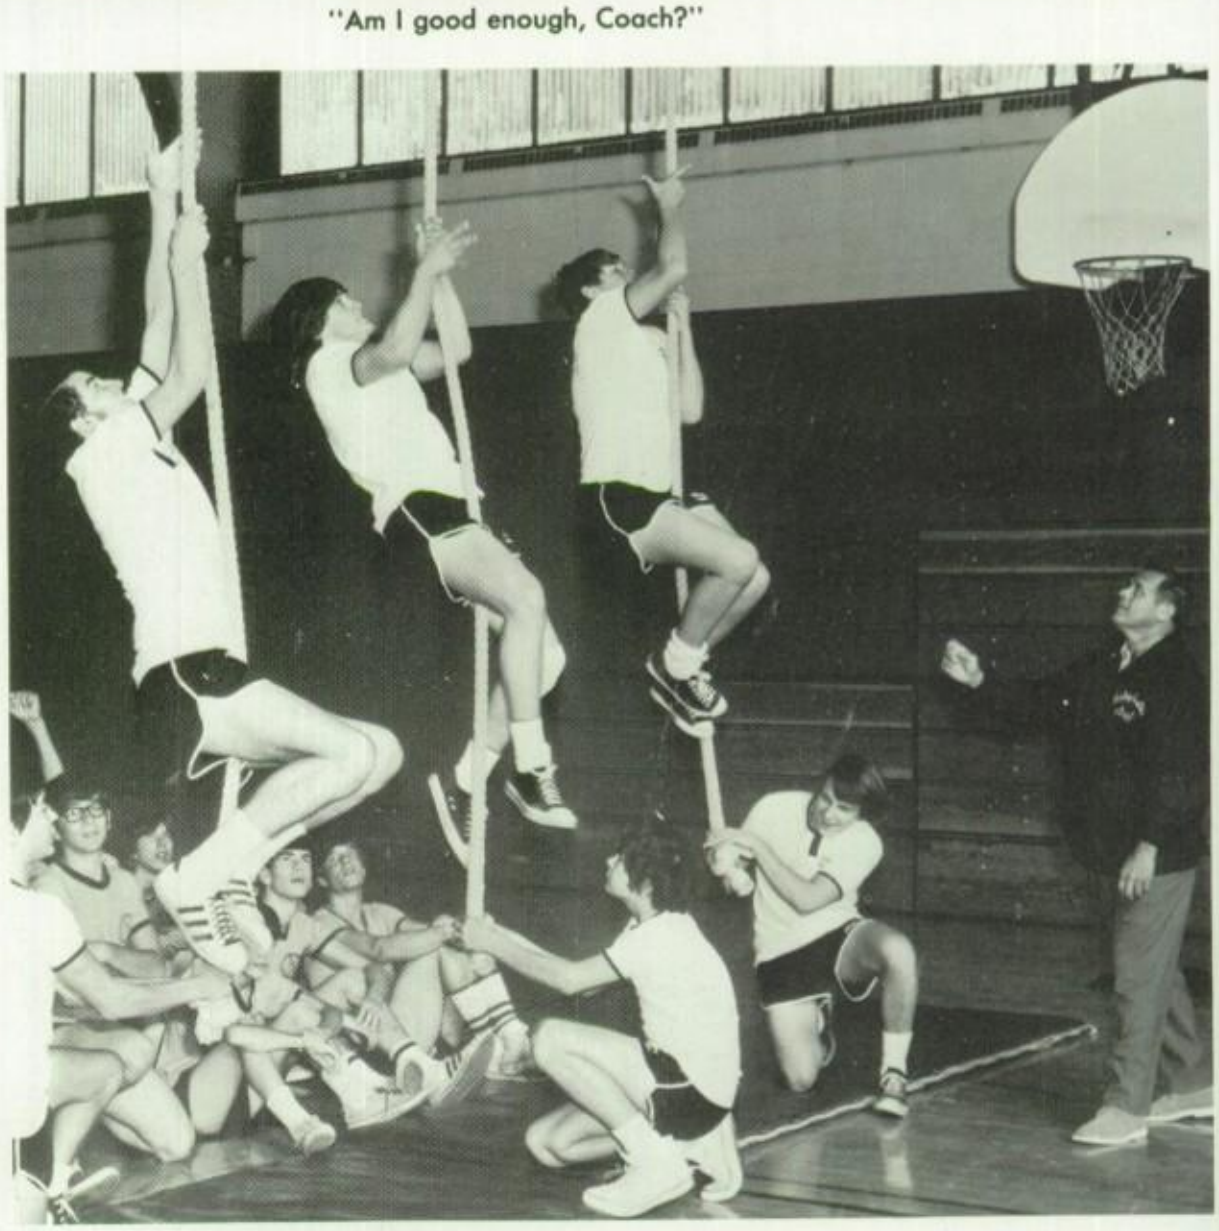
STRONG MINDS AND STRONG BODIES

Mr. McDonald teaches wrestling basics.

"Am I good enough, Coach?"

The life-time sports program begun in the Physical Education Department by chairman Mr. Robert Wengert was continued this year through the instruction of volleyball, golf and weight-lifting. The traditional elements of Phys Ed were not ignored, however, as Mr. McDonald and Mr. Ungaro taught the students gymnastics.

The intramural program at Eustace is also administered by the Phys Ed department. This combination of instruction and competition on gridiron, diamond and hardwood thus provides not only healthy bodies but a spirited class feeling.



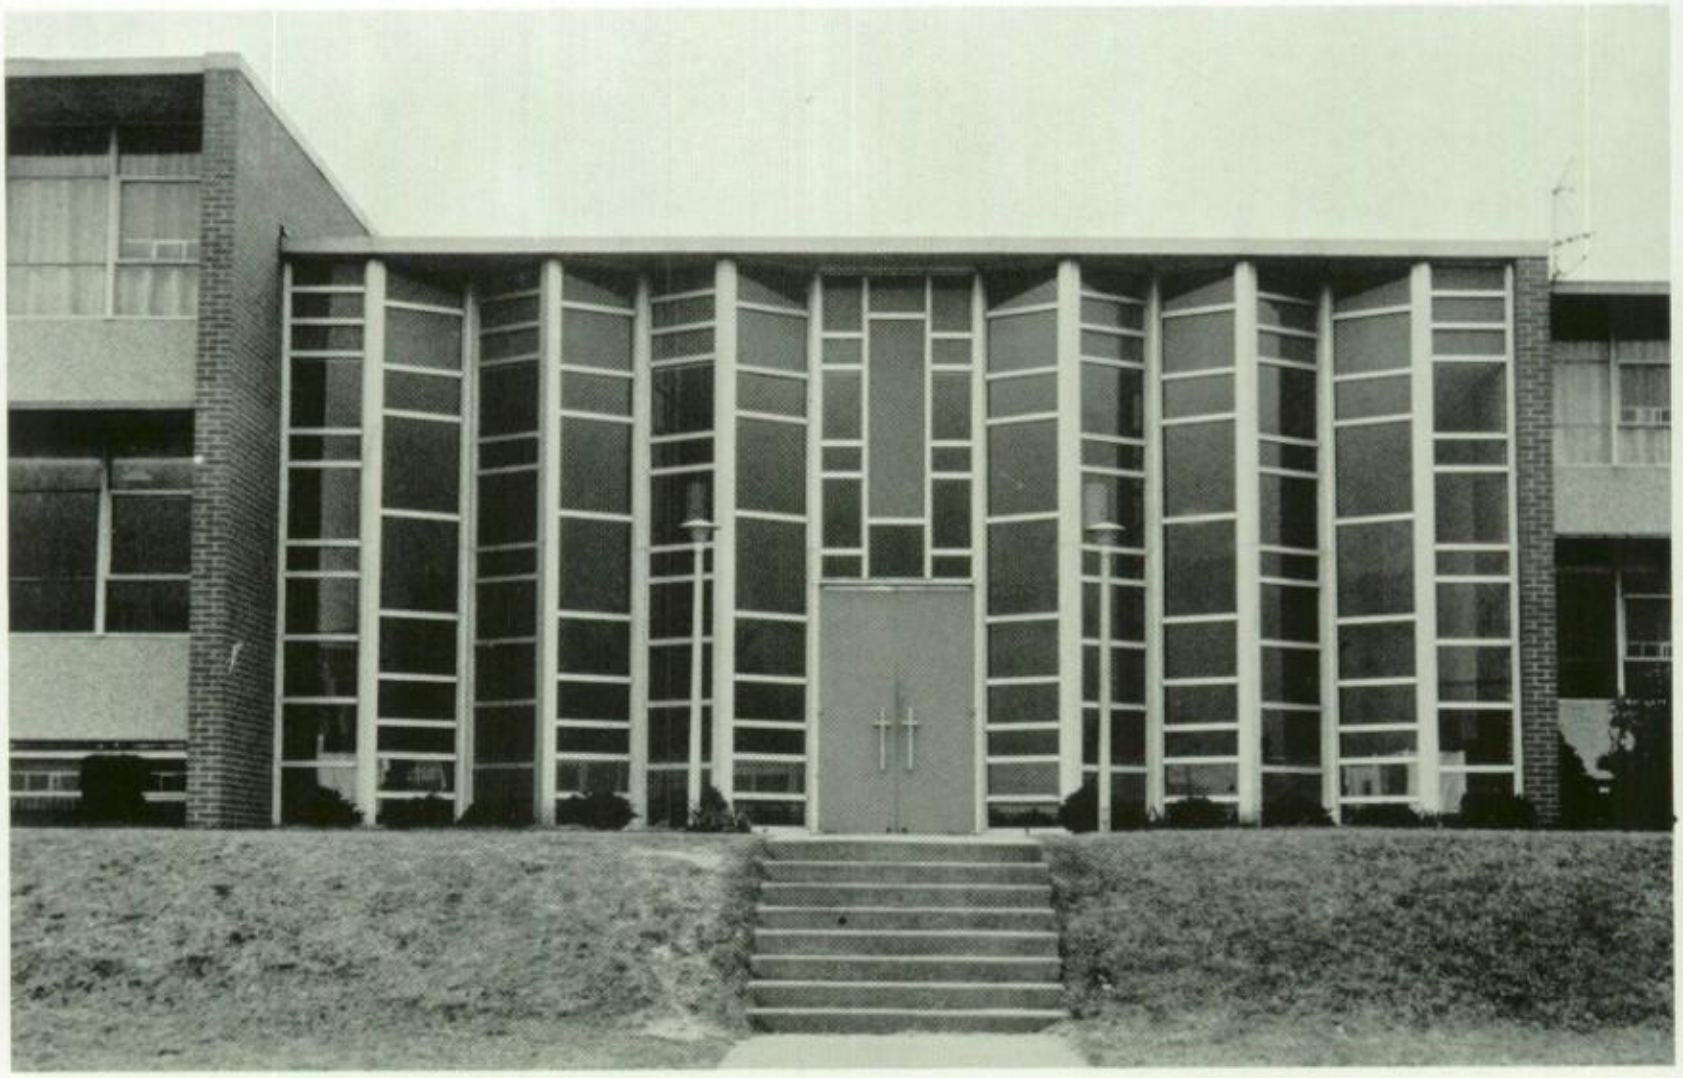
"If you don't make it to the top . . . "

Fine form of John Walters impresses Mr. Ungaro.

Really, Mr. Ungaro, my knee is messed up.

RELIGION IS A MAN'S TOTAL REACTION UPON LIFE.

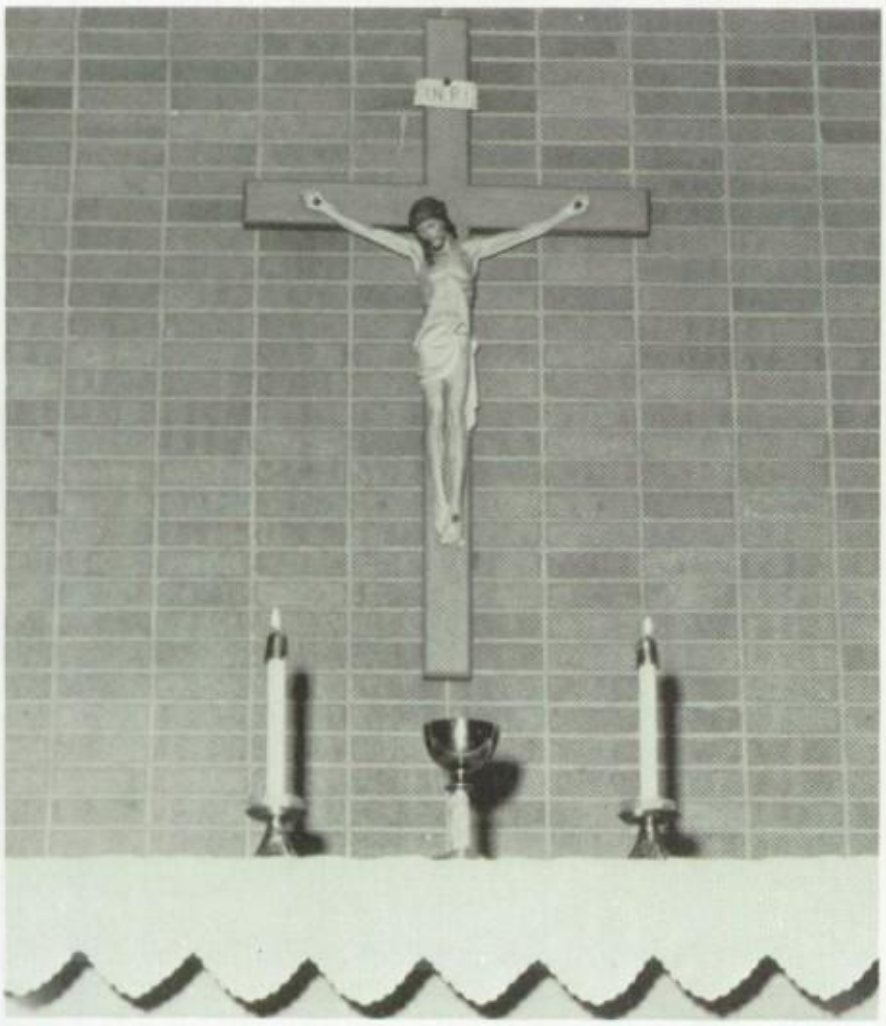
WILLIAM JAMES



No Charlie, you can't buy an "A."

Students set up projector for an insight film.

As the root of our Christian heritage, the foundation of Eustace is predicated on religion. With Father Joe Daley giving the guiding hand as department chairman, students explored the philosophy and revelation that has become the Christian religion. Msgr. Joe Devlin used a discussion technique to illustrate where the Church is today and where it is headed tomorrow. The scriptural roots of our present religion was considered by Fr. Jack Connor.



DeLuca and Samartino attempt to run the class . . . unsuccessfully.

FOR EVERYTHING A PLACE . . .

Bro. Jerry returns from a shopping trip.

Mr. Harte is always busy.

Many of the activities and facets of Bishop Eustace Prep owe their existence and continuance to a select group of individuals who perform the maintenance chores at the school. Foremost among this group, in the students' eyes, is Brother Thomas Portulano who directs the food services in the famed Bishop Eustace cafeteria. Asked to comment on this facet of Eustace life, a student in the halls responded, "You can eat off the floor of the cafeteria."

Two other noted figures on campus are Brother Jerry and Mr. Mike Harte. Brother Jerry works hard in faculty house and supervising the weekly dances. Mr. Harte is known for his tireless work around the grounds of the school.

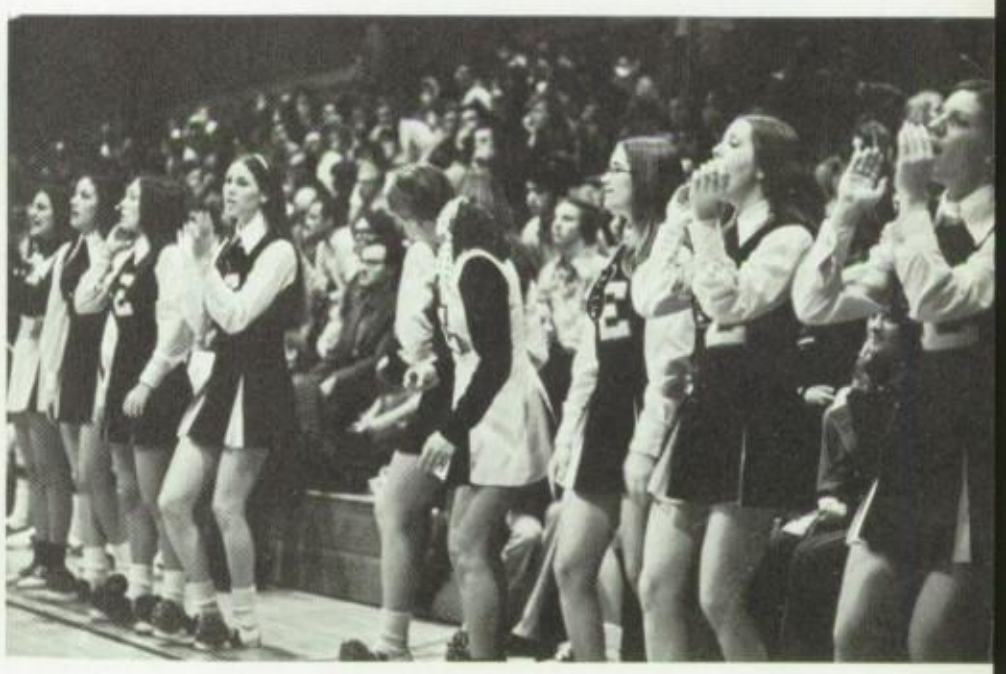
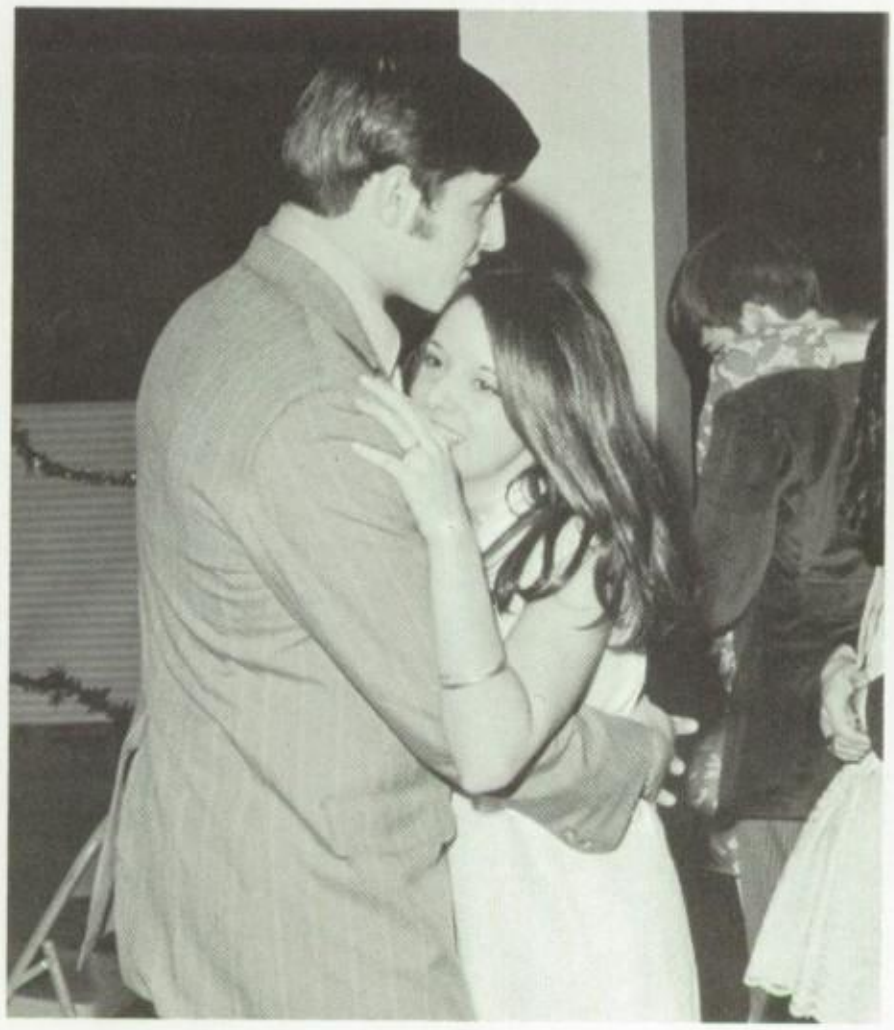
COMMUNITY IS SPIRIT

Mr. Mike Cappello is named Father of the Year for his great help to the school.



'71 YULE DANCE RAISES QUESTION OF RELEVANCE

This year's Christmas Ball, was an affair marked by sparse attendance and little interest. It seems as though student enthusiasm for the yuletide semi-formal is dying out. While those who attended enjoyed a fine night of music and dancing, there was, nevertheless, the question of relevancy raised by the nature of the turnout. Was this shift of interest due to poor promotion or management, the change of sponsor from the Eustacian to the Student Council, or the unappealing nature of the cafeteria as a setting? Or was it simply that "today's student" just shuns the idea of a coat and tie semi-formal? It may still be too soon to answer this question, but let us hope that since Bishop Eustace is a multidimensional community, this annual affair will be continued to be offered for those students who enjoy and benefit from a night of semi-formal Christmas cheer.



Seniors Ray Massi and Mike Flowers stop to talk together with their dates.

UNAPPLAUDED YET PERSONALLY FULFILLING

Football Manager Haas displays dedication and zeal characteristic of all our managers.

Mark Cunningham reads the Scriptures at Mass.

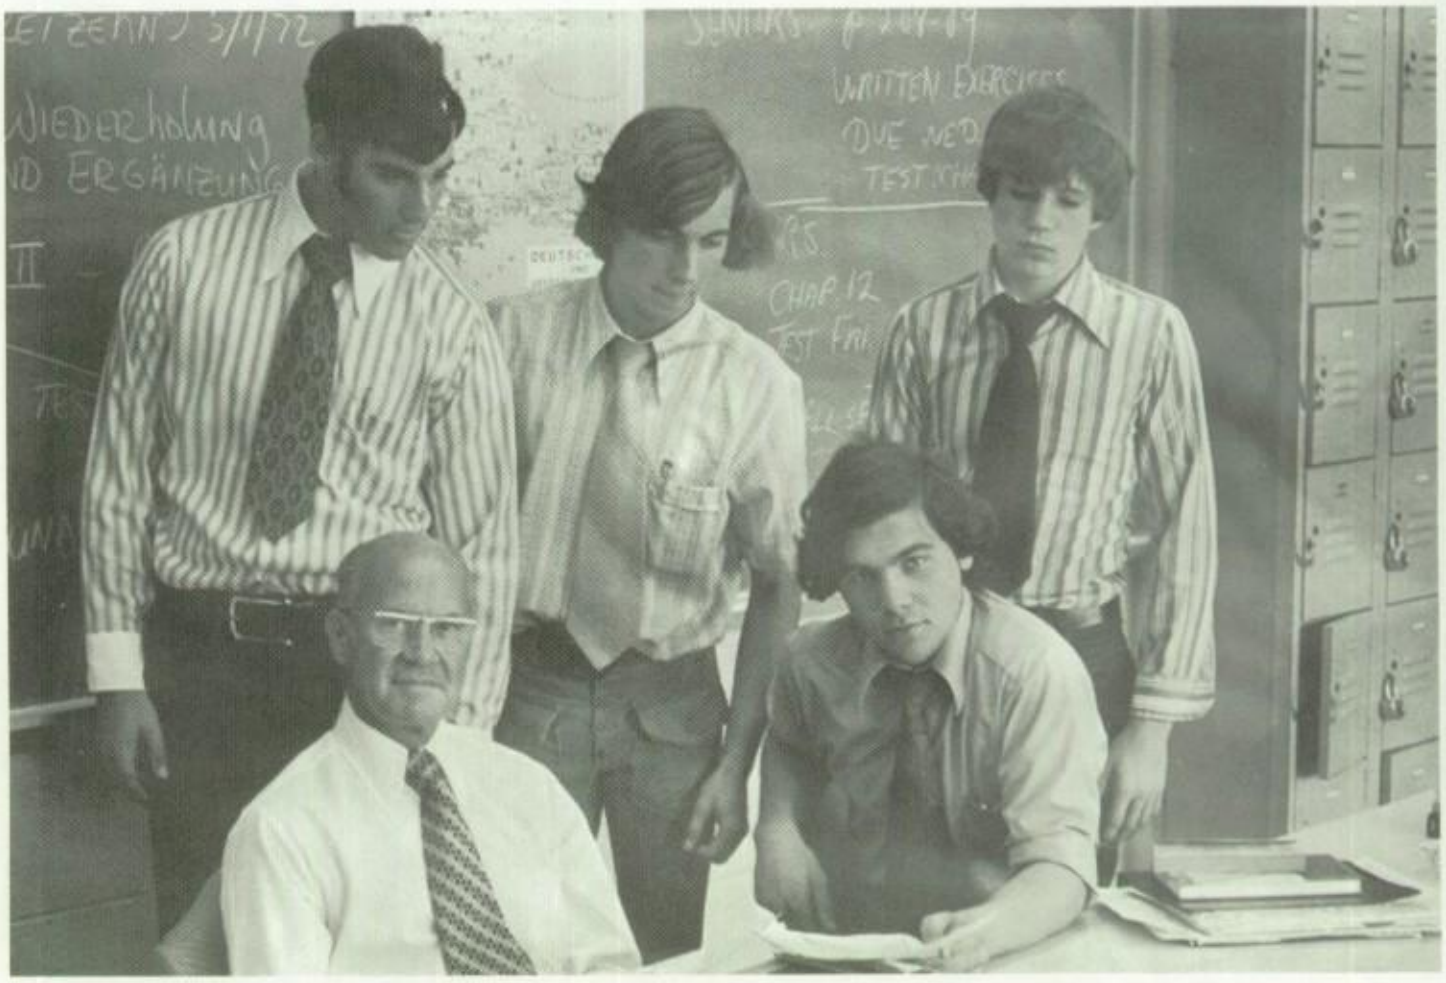
President Bendell and Andy Bojko look over the schedule.

There are many facets of life's activities which often receive little attention in any community, regardless of how small or friendly that community may be. Yet, the people involved in these silent or overshadowed categories of life often make a genuine contribution to the community, or experience a strong sense of personal fulfillment from their participation in these categories. At Eustace, the participation in these categories. At Eustace, the following activities and people might belong to such a category.

Sports Managers: These young men work hard providing much needed services to our athletic teams in regards to equipment, scoring, stats, etc.

Literary Magazine: This year's edition of the lit mag, Shiva, provided an interesting display of journalistic talent by such writers as Custy Skamarakas, Lance, and Art Marta.

Chess Club: Under the leadership of President Dave Bendell, the Eustace kingsmen enjoyed their weekly intramural sessions as well as several home and away matches with other schools. Outstanding board strategists remained undefeated throughout the season.



French Club members consult with Mr. LeTrionnaire.

Spiritual Action Committee: This loosely structured group, headed by Father Jim, performed countless acts of service both here on our campus and in the larger community of South Jersey. Some of their away-from-school activities included basketball coaching at Our Lady of Mt. Carmel in Camden, visits to Lakeland, and participation as assistants in a physical therapy program.

Cheerleaders: Although not members of the Eustace student body, the help given to us by the cheerleaders recruited from St. Mary's was, as usual, priceless.

French Club: Not content with doing simply that which is required by ordinary scholastic standards, members of the French Club met each week to improve their knolwedge through additional readings and the production of a student French language newspaper, L'Echo Francais.

Members of the literary magazine look over an entry for this year's issue.

SOPH COTILLION TRANSFORMS CAFETERIA WITH TEUTONIC THEME

This year the Sophomore class held its annual Cotillion in the school cafeteria during the month of April. Under the direction of Father Joe, Class Moderator, the usual noon hour surroundings of the cafeteria were magnificently transformed into a German Beer Garden. Many hours of effort and artistic exercise were expended by the students themselves in the production of heraldic representations of German cities and universities. During the evening, the class was served a buffet and birch beer supper.

Would you care to repeat that?

Tom Mullowney prefers slow dances.

You don't have to be a soph to enjoy the Cotillion.

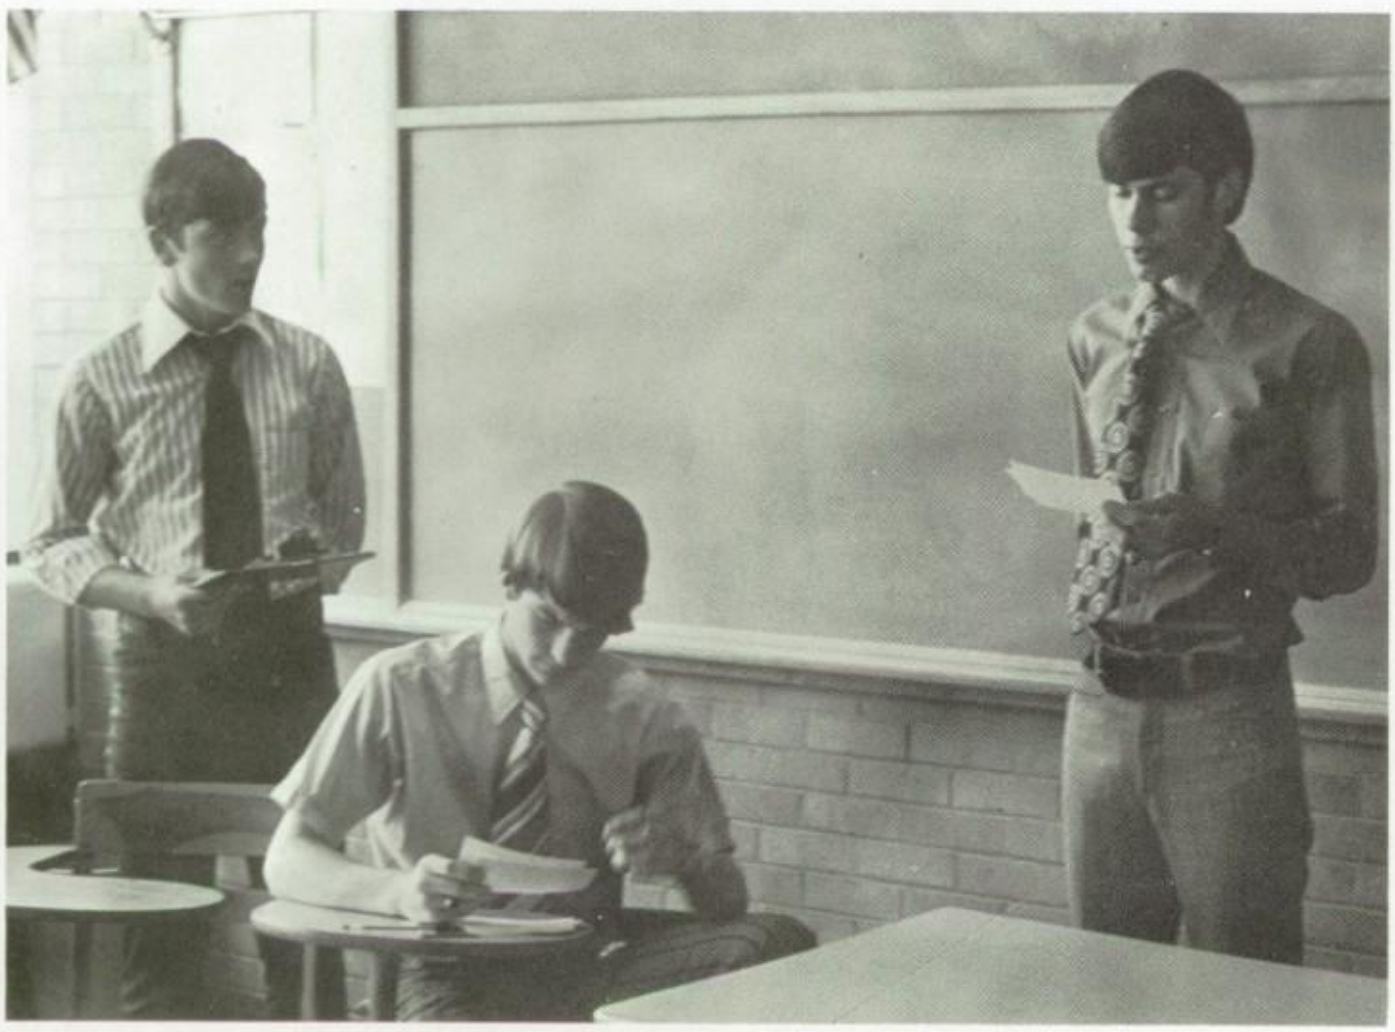
DEBATE COPS MORE HONORS FOR EUSTACE

The Bishop Eustace Debate Team once again ran roughshod over the standard South Jersey competition. Among the many honors won for our school by the talents of the debate team were the South Jersey and Diocesan championships. With the expert coaching of Mr. William Kopesky, the 1971-72 debate season was climaxed by the appearance of Ray Dombrowski and Ed Kopakowski representing South Jersey in the National Finals in Pittsburgh.



Frank Bove corners John DiGiuseppe in an argument.

EUSTACE HOLDS FIRST JUNIOR-SENIOR PROM

This year the customary separate junior and senior proms were replaced by a joint event sponsored by both classes. Twenty-two junior couples and forty-one senior couples gathered on the evening of May twenty-seventh in the main ballroom of the new Sheraton Poste Inn. After pictures were taken as mementos, a delicious prime rib dinner was served to the delight of all present. Following dinner, the band, Charred Oak, let loose with some fine dancing music, doing a fine job of varying tempo, and selecting just the right tune for the right moment. The Ballroom itself was perfect for the prom, complete with soft lights and a spacious dance floor. The Sheraton's pool and courtyard provided a romantic backdrop for the prom-goers as the full moon reflected many romantic gazes.

Congratulations should be extended to class presidents Dave Hughes and Dan Waters for a pleasant evening that comes only once in a lifetime.

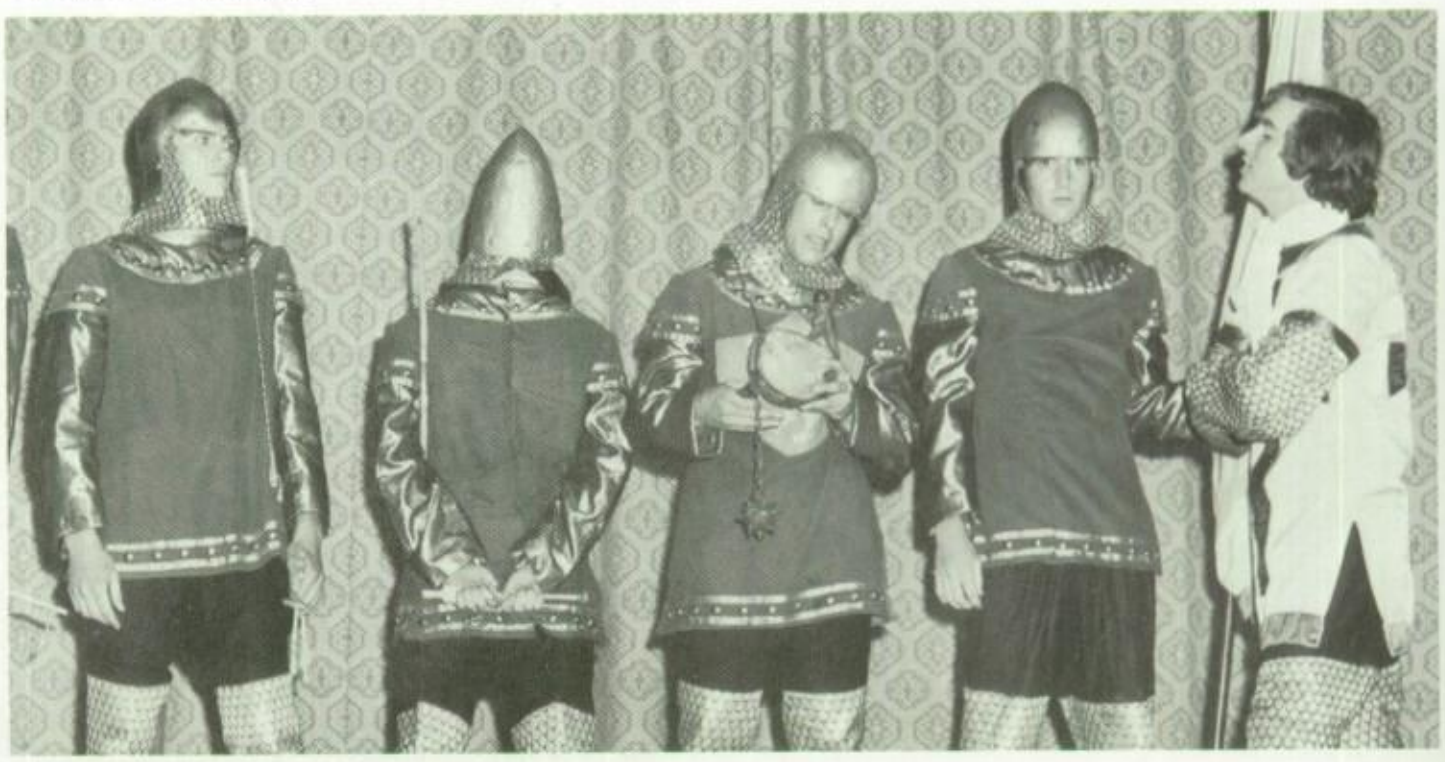
THE MOUSE THAT ROARED

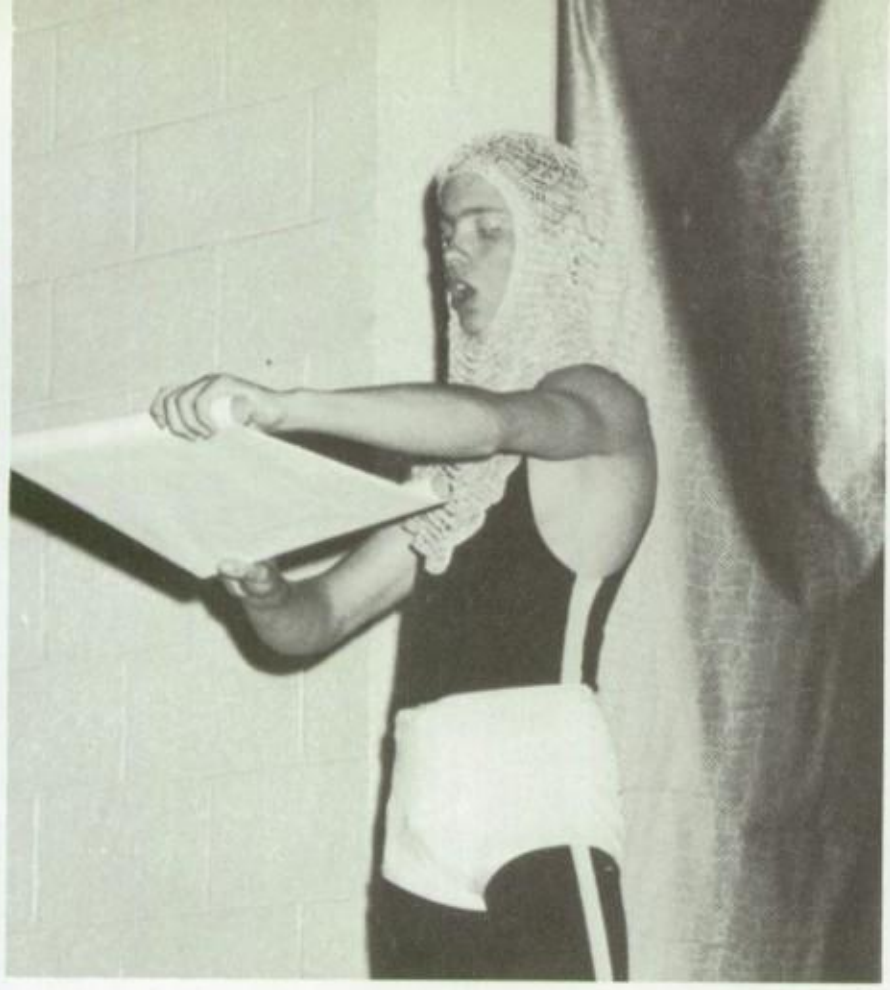
This year the Bishop Eustace Drama Club decided to depart from the serious and present the comedy "The Mouse That Roared." This production, which centers around the "attack" and "defeat" of the United States by the tiny European Duchy of Grand Fenwick, starred six senior performers in major roles and two in supporting parts.

Although one could definitely distinguish the female lead, Glorianna IXX (Elaine Carmody), there would be some difficulty in determining which was the male lead and who played that part. This may seem strange, and indeed it is, but in a play where the roles of Professor Kokintz (Pat Mahon), Count Mountjoy (Joe Pennisi), and Tully Bascom (Bill Wright) are crucial to the outcome of the plot, and extremely well played by the above, this is a difficult task. Whether or not a comedy is good or bad with such characteristics can be left to the critics. The enjoyment experienced by the players makes almost any vehicle acceptable.

Let me make this perfectly clear.

Jalio recites his two lines.





Court Page Speitel reads a proclamation.

THE EUSTACIAN: VOICE OF THE PREP

Moderators and Editor seek inspiration from the Muse.

Since the time of Ben Franklin, the newspaper has played a vital role in the evolution of our national communications media. The Eustacian is an extension of this tradition and strives to meet the standards of American journalism.

Over the years, the Eustacian has attempted to reflect the attitudes of both students and faculty as a Christian community concerned with many vital secular issues and goals. In conjunction with this effort, editors Joe Pennisi, Tim Ficchi and Ed Kopakowski along with moderators.

Mr. Rocca and Mr. Marquart established a system of guidelines designed to inform as well as entertain their readers.

ATHLETES' NIGHT OUT

On May 24, 1972, the BE Athletic Association held its annual sports banquet at Moffa's Farm to honor the coaches and athletes of the 1971-72 school year. Don Casey, former Eustace basketball coach, did an ample job as toastmaster. Bob Vetrone, a sports writer for the Bulletin, successfully served as guest speaker. While each athlete contributes to a team effort, there is one or two individuals who give just a little more. These people are designated Most Valuable Players. This year's MVP's were: Dom Mancini and Dan Lane (football), Dennis Gardner (wrestling), Mark Lonetto and John Olive (basketball), Gary Kennedy (bowling), Steve Leonard (cross country), John Hill (track), and Dan Boyer (baseball).

Coach Cianfrani presents Steve Leonard with MVP Award.

Salutatorian Joseph Pennisi addresses the assembly.

June seventh, nineteen hundred and seventy-two culminated a four year tenure for seniors at Bishop Eustace. For many, it was a moment of joy, and for others sorrow. The happiness of moving to college was blended with the emotion of sadness at leaving many close friends. The 1972 graduation was also significant insofar as it was the last time an all male class will leave the Prep.

This year's salutatorian, Joseph Pennisi, and Valedictorian, Joseph Garbarino, delivered brilliant speeches, and Robert Daley, Ph.D., the principal speaker, gave the students and gathered family and friends much to think on. As they left, many of the graduates expressed their thanks to the Pallottine Fathers and wished all at Eustace a warm farewell.

EUSTACE SUCCEEDS IN GROUP IV

It's true that this year's football season is gone forever, but it is only in the physical sense that its absence is recognized. This year, football at Eustace gained respect, admiration and an overall face-lift.

Like another Cinderella team, the Miami Dolphins, the Eustace Crusaders came flashing down from the clouds on chariots of gold as did the mythical gods of old. But no heavenly vision ever ran faster, hit harder, or scared as many people as our Crusaders did.

Before the season people joked at the thought of Eustace playing Group IV football. Rumor said they didn't stand a chance. But after the season, there were six teams staring in disbelief at the scoreboard, and three others thanking God they had escaped alive. Yes, the '71-'72 season is one to remember!

CRUSADERS SUFFER LOSING SEASON

The Eustace harriers suffered through a losing season (2-11) despite some fine individual performances. Captain Steve Leonard provided a source of exceptional team spirit before bowing out in late season due to injuries. However, Freshman Mike Resenly responded to this emergency by placing second in the Camden County Freshman Run. Other members on the varsity squad, Sophomores Dave Morris and Senior Ray Dombrowski and Juniors Dan Ragone and Rich Falcone consistently, did well throughout the season. Freshman Jim LaVoice, although overshadowed by his fellow Freshman teammate, was an exceptional performer.

THEIR EFFORTS WERE UNQUESTIONABLE

The 1971-72 Bishop Eustace basketball squad recorded one of its finest seasons in the school's short but illustrious court history. Finishing with a fine record of twenty-three wins and three losses, the Eustace team was voted number one in South Jersey. As with most good teams, it is nearly impossible to pick one outstanding player amidst such a well balanced force. In fact, teamwork was this year's trademark along with a deep desire to win that showed itself in repeated one hundred per cent effort in numerous difficult situations. Among these should be noted the numerous playoff games at the close of the season. Led by returning Coach Pete Johnston, and assistants Al Glander and Fred Webb, the Eustace players and coaches deserve all the credit they have so capably earned this past season.

BEST TEAM EVER

Under the careful supervision of head coach Dave Capozzi and assistant coach Jerry Erhart, the Eustace Wrestling Team posted one of the best records (11-4-0) in the relatively short history of this sport at the Prep. Co-Captains Dennis Gardner and Bill Yanetti led a varsity squad of three juniors, six sophomores and one freshman to a third place finish in the District Tournament. Captains Yanetti and Garner advanced to the Regional Championship contest along with John Cavanaugh and Mike McKenna. The 1971-72 season came to a favorable conclusion when Dennis Gardner became Eustace's first medalist in State competition.

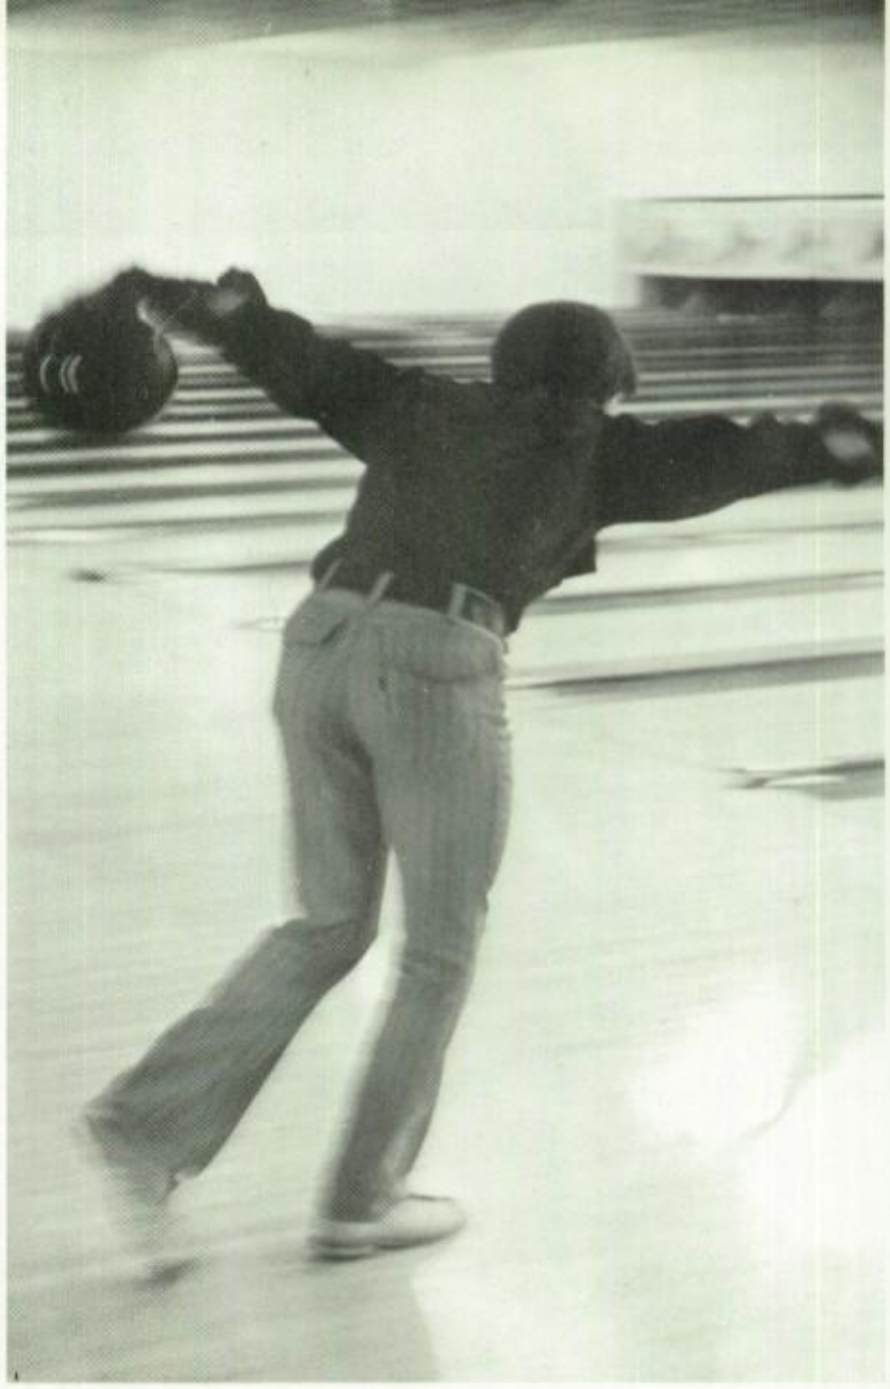
B.E. BOWLERS KNOCK 'EM OVER

This year's bowling season was highlighted by the accomplishments of Sophomore Gary Kennedy. Gary, astounding the crowds, came from the bottom of the ranks to bowl several near perfect games. As a result of his many bowling exploits, this fine BE student was named MVP at the annual Sports Banquet.



Quick delivery.

Manny, Jack and Moe.

THEY SAID IT COULDN'T BE DONE!

"A clean slate" can accurately describe the way the Eustace baseball team started this season. With a new coach and an optimistic attitude acting as sparks, the team was fired to win the first State title in baseball at Eustace.

Although critics had a pessimistic view of the season, rookie coach Ernie Arizzi showed himself to be the essence of Eustace sports poise. With his coolness and the abilities of ace pitcher Dan Boyer, it's really not hard to see that it was done. Congratulations should also go to Frank Capaldo, back-up pitcher, and Dom "Scoop" Mancini, whose action as shortstop was second to none.

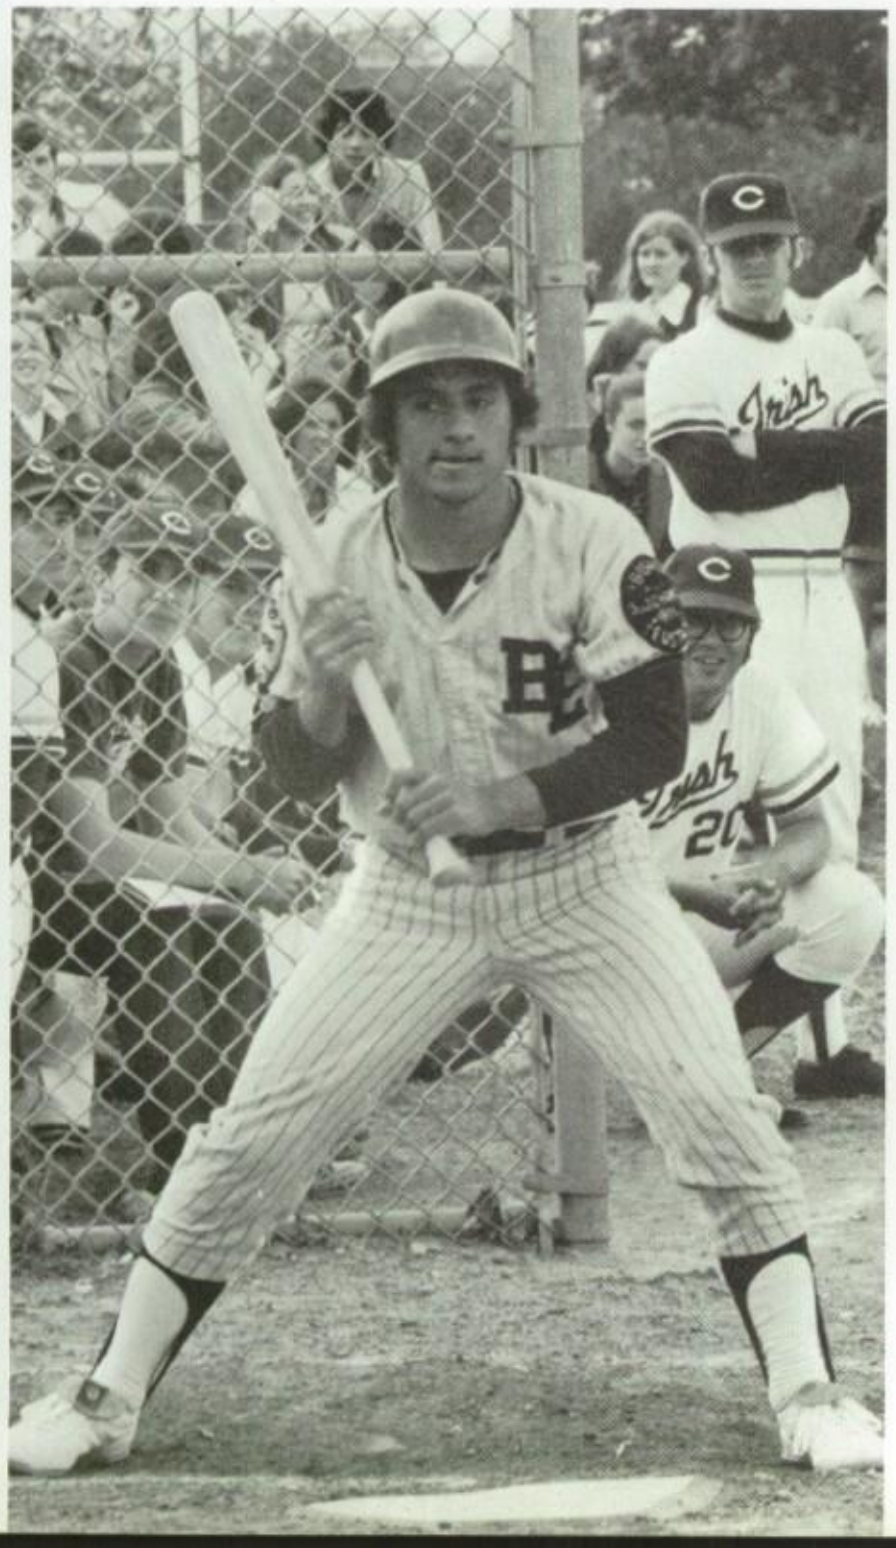
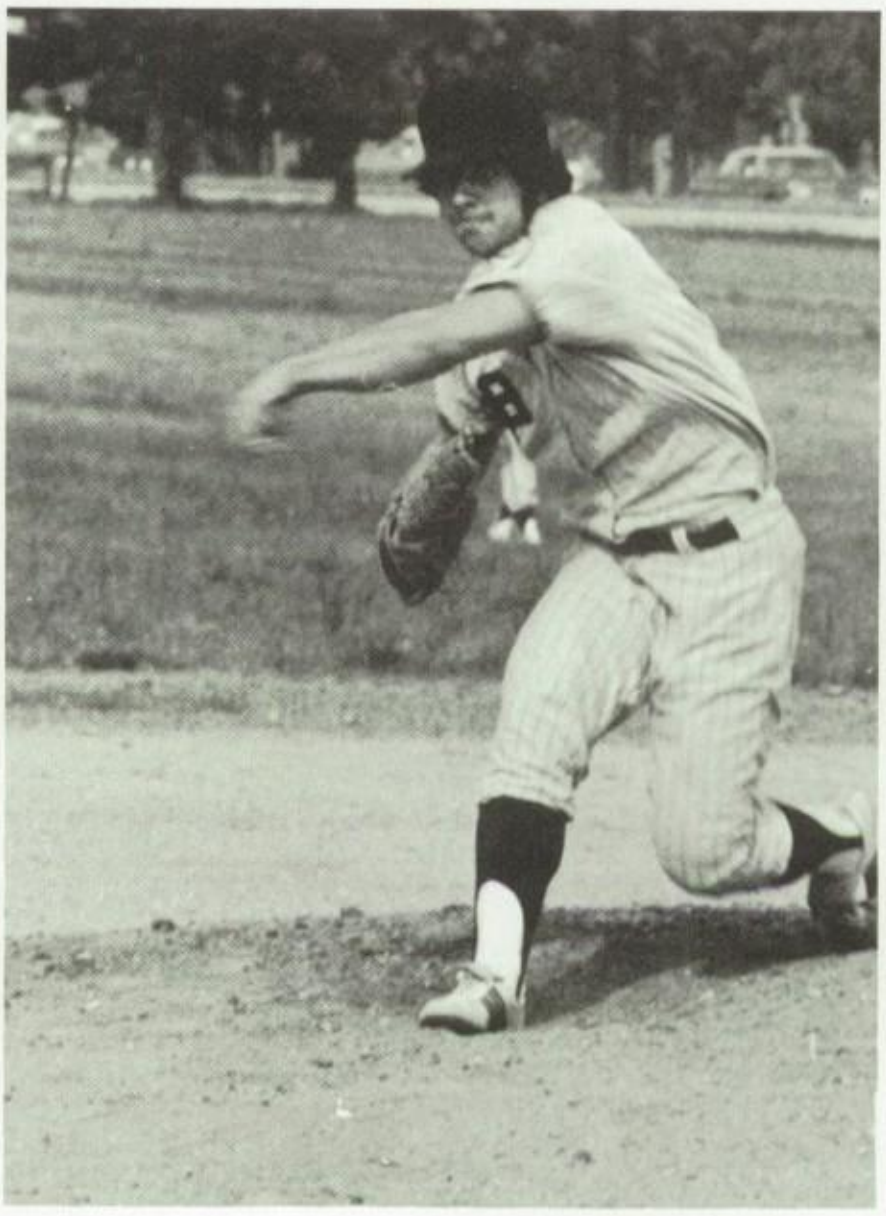
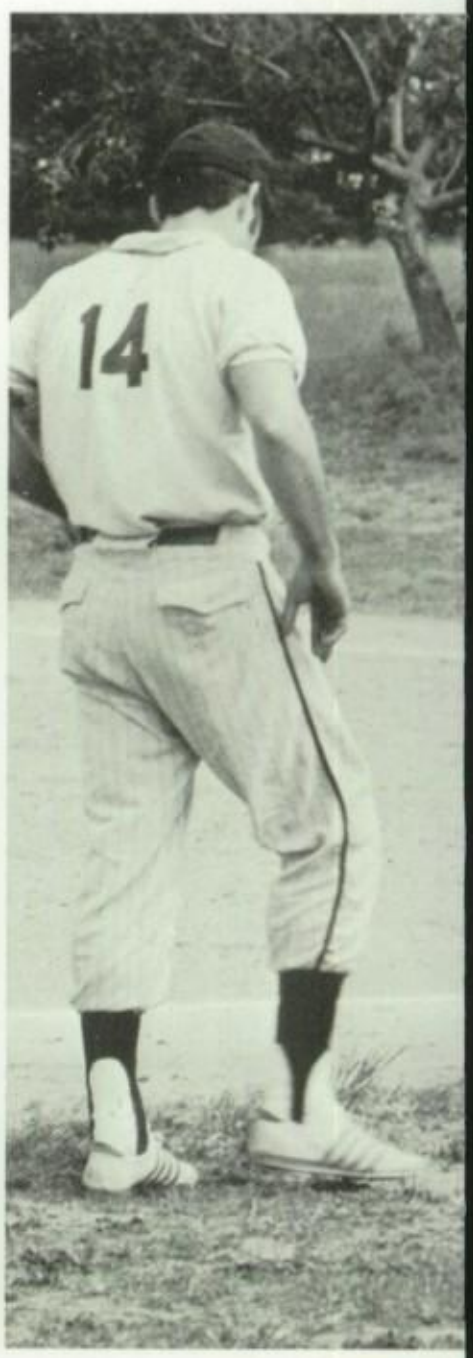
Teammates look on from the bench.



Frank lets go a fast ball.

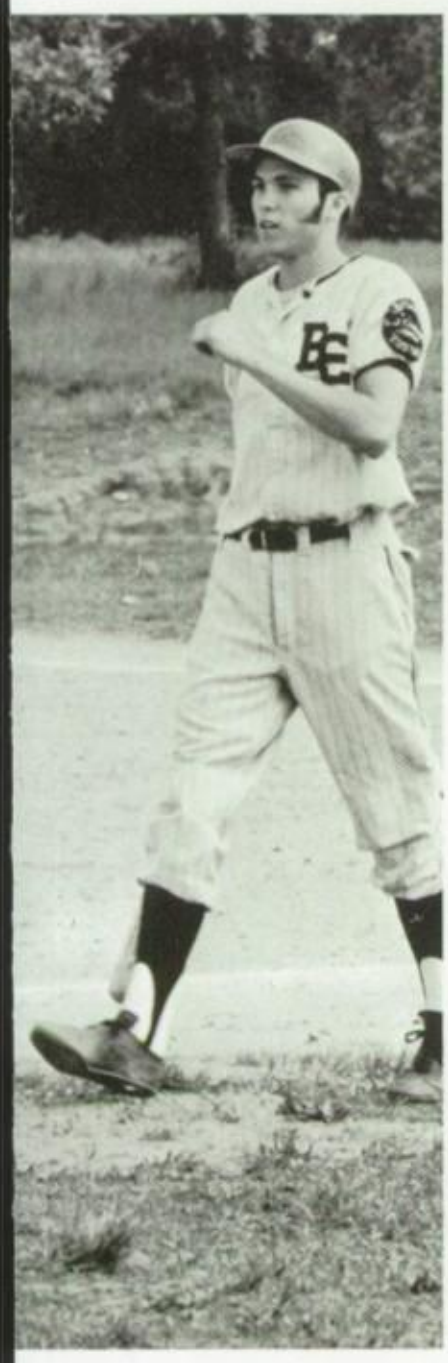


STATE CHAMPS!



Dan Boyer swings a big bat.

Dom Mancini heads for home.

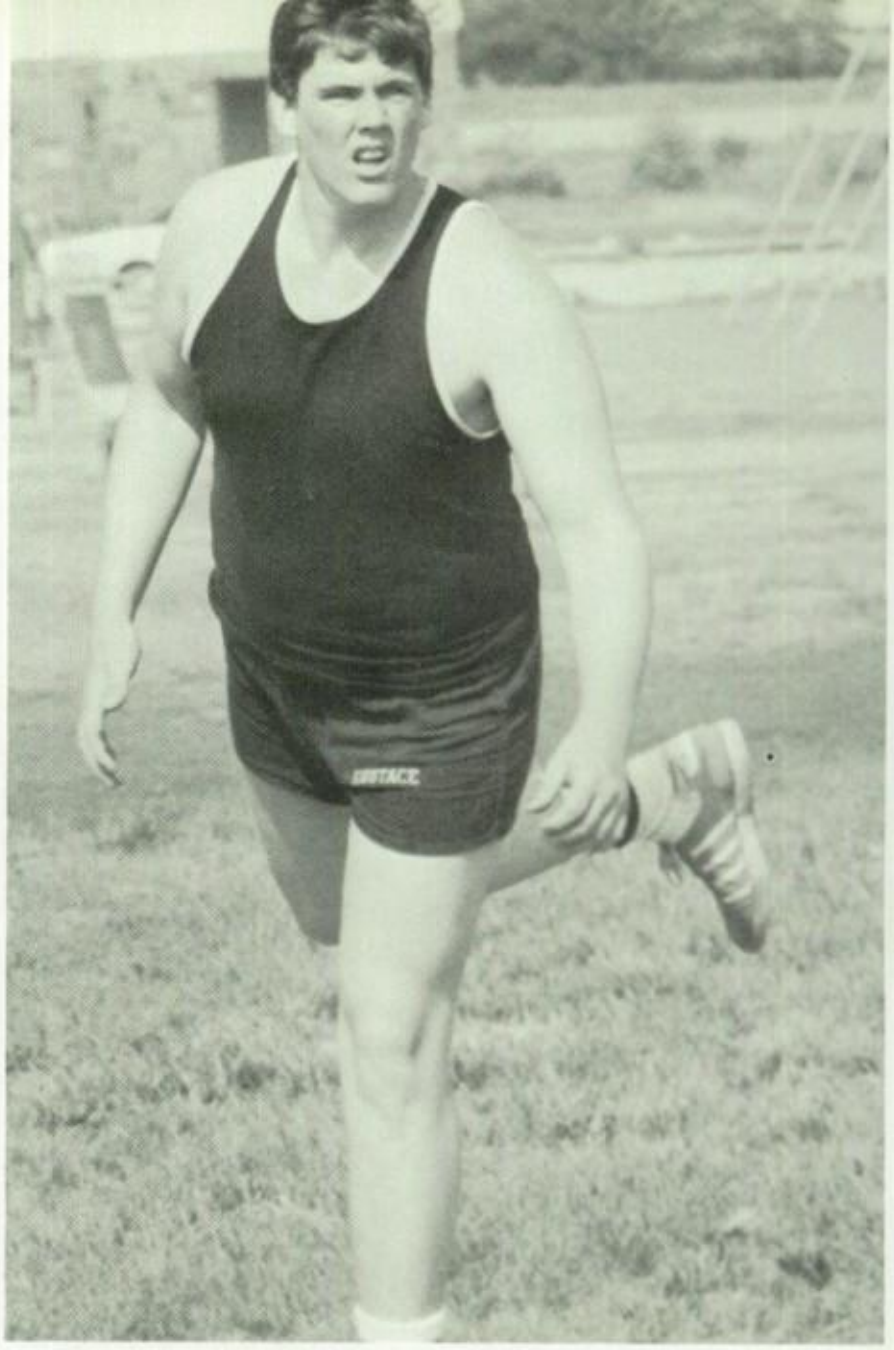


Roco Santor takes a cut.

Rick Adams is about to be called . . .

JOHN HILL REPEATS STATE CHAMPIONSHIP

This year's track season was highlighted by another excellent showing by veteran John Hill. With the assistance of protegee George Matteo and the support of the rest of the team, Hill ended his pole vaulting season not only by clinching the state title but also by breaking the school record. The previous height of eleven feet six inches was easily bounded by Hill at the JFK in Willingboro. Also congratulations should go to the weight events. This year, with the able assistance of Coach Mike Hoey, the discus and javeline events improved greatly. Challenging past school records, seniors Bill Billings, Joe DiStanislao and Bob Bergbauer presented an impressive tally of points.



Bill Billings exhibits good follow-through.

Back row: Dan Rodier, Mark Whittington, Paul Egan, Rick Novack, Greg D'Adamo, Mike Balabon, Jerry Wisla, Mark Lonetto, Dan Ragone, Bob Bergbauer, Tony Venuto, Dave Lopresti, Steve Leonard, Bill Billings, and Marino Garbin. Middle row: Jim LaVoice, Jerry Caruso, Tom DiBenedetto, Joe DeLorenzo, Rich Ryan, Ray Dombrowski, Jack Scheurich, Dennis Schreiber, Joe Zaborowski, Dave Blaker.

Mike Resenly finishes well again.

Joe DeLorenzo runs the half mile.
